PREFACE

THE early history of the Catalogues of Dartmouth College is somewhat obscure; the College has in its possession, however, in the handwriting of its first President, a manuscript copy of "A Catalogue of the Members of Dartmouth College & More's School" dated "Feb'y 1771"; this must be the first catalogue as it contains the names of the four classes then in College, namely, 1771-72-73-74, and of several others who were preparing for College, as stated, doubtless in More's School, for many of these names appear in later classes as graduates of the College.

The first printed list of students, so far as known, was issued by the Freshman class, class of 1791, June 15, 1788, and printed at Windsor, Vt.; this is a single sheet on heavy paper, eight by ten inches, containing the names and residences of the Freshman class only. The Sophomore classes after this time occasionally published class lists, and each of them was called "A catalogue of members of the sophomore class."

The first official annual catalogue so far as known published by the College was in 1802, as a single sheet, about 12 by 16 inches, printed on cloth and on one side only; the title is "A Catalogue of the Officers and Students at Dartmouth University, October, 1802." The Officers consist of a President, three Professors and one Tutor; the students number 138 in the four classes, of which 64 are from New Hampshire, 41 from Massachusetts, 19 from Vermont, 7 from the District of Maine, 5 from Connecticut, and 1 from Maryland. From 1802 to 1819 inclusive the single sheet form was used, except in 1812 when no catalogue was printed, so far as can be learned. In 1820 and since, the form has been the pamphlet or book, though in some years both forms were issued.

The first General Catalogue containing names of all graduates to date of issue was printed in 1779, so far as known, a copy of which is in the Massachusetts Historical Society Library; this is in the form of a "broadside" so called, a single sheet, printed on cloth; a broadside of 1786 is in the College Library, and others between that date and the issue of the first octavo volume in 1795 are reported as in existence. From 1795 to 1873 this catalogue in book form appeared regularly as a Triennial, and all were in the Latin language except the last which was in English. The next edition was in 1880, followed by a supplement in 1885; in 1890 the book became a Decennial, with occasional supplements giving only the addresses of those living.

The 1900 edition was of octavo size and numbered 492 pages; there was also a supplement in 1905, giving the addresses of living graduates.

In the present edition of 1910, in addition to giving the academic, civil, and military records, together with the vital statistics, of the entire body of Alumni, as in the 1900 edition, the compiler has adopted several new features of which the following are the most important: he has put at the top of each page the year or years of the classes represented on that page, and at the end of each class the total number of graduates in that class and the number who have died starred; the graduates of the Chandler School of Science and the Arts, from 1854 to 1893, when the School was incorporated into the College, are alphabetized with the classes and marked with an s., not put in a separate list at the end of the respective classes and marked C. S. D. as in the previous edition; the graduates of the associated schools follow the regular Alumni in the order of establishment of the school, headed by the Faculty of that school from its establishment, and by the Faculty for 1910-1911, with the exception of the Chandler graduates referred to above; the list of honorary degrees contains the names of Dartmouth men who have been thus honored by the College which has not been the case in previous editions; the Greek letters, ΦΒΚ, have been included with the honors received by members of that fraternity and put just after the name or degree received; in the arrangement of Officers of Government and Instruction a new method has been followed; in place of the old order, by endowed chairs and the establishment of new ones, the arrangement of courses of study by the Group system, adopted by the College in 1902, has been followed, and this shows who have been the teachers in a given subject from the beginning. The principal additions to the contents of the book are the two following: a list, called a "Geographical List," of the living Alumni of the College and associated schools, including the recipients of honorary degrees, is given, arranged by countries, states, and towns in the states in alphabetical order, with street address when necessary; the occupations are also indicated by abbreviations, and the class is given so that further information may be ascertained when desired; this should prove most useful for ready reference; also an alphabetical list of the Non-Graduates of the College, so far as they could be ascertained, the classes which they entered, the time registered in College, and their present address, if living, so far as known; this list is given a place in the book to serve in some measure as a recognition of their devotion and loyalty to the College and with the hope that their love for it will always abide; the past few years have proven that many of them are among its best friends.

The above has been a difficult task and the success only partial, but it is hoped that an encouraging beginning has been made. College records, Trustee and Faculty books, Chapman's "Sketches of the Alumni," College catalogues, the files of "The Dartmouth" and "The Alumni Magazine," class histories, genealogies and town histories have been consulted; circulars have been sent to all graduates and non-graduates whose addresses could be ascertained, and in some cases repeated several times, and much information has been thus secured, but the greatest assistance has been rendered by the class Secretaries who have taken a deep interest in the work; the compiler hereby acknowledges his indebtedness to them and to the Secretaries of the various associations of Alumni for their assistance. Thanks are especially due Dr. James A. Spalding, class of 1866, Portland, Me., for his aid in correcting the medical list of the early years, and to the assistants in the Dean's office for timely aid and patient perseverance.

A list of Alumni whose addresses are unknown is printed in the back of the book, and information about them is desired; if it is known that any have died, this fact, with date and place of death, if possible, should be reported at once.

At the back of the book are given some statistics which it is hoped will be of interest to the Alumni and friends of the College.

In a book of this nature, composed in large part of names and dates, typographical and other errors must inevitably creep in, and omissions occur which can be avoided in future editions, if those who notice such mistakes will report promptly to the Dean's office at the College.

The long delay in issuing the book has been caused by the later decisions as to what the book should contain, after the vote of the Trustees in the autumn of 1910 to publish it; many new things have been called for as the work progressed; but it is hoped that these additions will add so much to the usefulness of the publication as a book of reference that the delay will be justified; owing to this delay in printing, it has been attempted to have the work include the College year 1910-1911, and hence the class of 1911 is included, and the facts brought down to Commencement in June, 1911.

CHARTER

THE CHARTER OF DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

GEORGE THE THIRD by the grace of GOD of Great Britain
France and Ireland KING Defender of the Faith, and so forth.—

To all to whom these Presents shall come.

GREETING

WHEREAS it hath been represented to our Trusty and well beloved JOHN WENTWORTH Esquire Governor and Commander in Chief in and over our Province of NEW HAMPSHIRE in New England in AMERICA, that the Reverend ELEAZER WHELOCK of Lebanon in the Colony of Connecticut in New England aforesaid, now Doctor in Divinity, did on or about the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and Fifty four, at his own expence, on his own Estate and Plantation set on foot an INDIAN Charity School and for several years through the assistance of well-disposed Persons in America, cloathed, maintained and educated a number of the Children of the Indian Natives, with a view to their carrying the Gospel in their own Language and spreading the knowledge of the great Redeemer among their Savage Tribes, and hath actually employ'd a number of them as Missionaries and Schoolmasters in the Wilderness for that purpose: and by the blessing of God upon the endeavours of said Wheelock the design became reputable among the Indians insomuch that a larger number desired the Education of their Children in said School; and were also disposed to receive Missionaries and Schoolmasters in the Wilderness more than could be supported by the charitable Contributions in these American Colonies.— WHEREUPON the said Eleazer Wheelock thought it expedient that endeavours should be used to raise Contributions from well disposed Persons in England for the carrying on and extending said undertaking, And for that purpose said Eleazer Wheelock requested the Reverend Nathaniel Whitaker now Doctor in Divinity to go over to England for that purpose, and sent over with him the Reverend Samson Oocom an Indian Minister who had been educated by the said Wheelock, And to enable the said Whitaker to the more successful performance of said Work on which he was sent, said Wheelock gave him a full Power of Attorney by which said Whitaker solicited those worthy & generous Contributors to the Charity viz^t. The Right Honorable WILLIAM Earl of DARTMOUTH, The Honorable SIR SIDNEY STAFFORD SMYTHE Knight, one of the Barons of his Majesty's Court of Exchequer, JOHN THORNTON of Clapham in the County of Surrey Esquire, SAMUEL ROFFEY of Lincoln's Inn fields in the County of Middlesex Esquire, CHARLES HARDY of the parish of Saint Mary-le-bonne in said County Esquire, DANIEL WEST of Christ's church Spitalfields in the County aforesaid Esquire, SAMUEL SAVAGE of the same place Gentleman, JOSIAH ROBERTS of the parish of Saint Edmund the King Lombard Street, London Gentleman, and ROBERT KEEN of the parish of Saint Botolph Aldgate London, Gentleman, to receive the several Sums of Money which should be contributed, and to be Trustees for the Contributors to such Charity, which they cheerfully agreed to. Whereupon the said Whitaker did by virtue of said Power of Attorney constitute and appoint the said Earl of Dartmouth Sir Sydney Stafford Smythe, John Thornton, Samuel Roffey, Charles Hardy & Daniel West Esquires, and Samuel Savage, Josiah Roberts and Robert Keen Gentlemen to be Trustees of the Money which had then been contributed, and which should by his means be contributed for said Purpose; which Trust they have accepted as by their engrossed Declaration of the same under their Hands and Seals well executed fully appears, and the same has also been ratified by a deed of Trust well executed by the said Wheelock;— And the said Wheelock further represents that he has by power of Attorney for many weighty reasons, given full Power to the said Trustees to fix upon and determine the place for said School most subservient to the great end in view, and to enable them understandingly to give the preference, the said Wheelock has laid before the said Trustees the several Offers which have been generously made in the several Governments in America to encourage and invite the settlement of said School among them for their own private emolument, and the increase of Learning in their respective places as well as for the furtherance of the general design in view. And whereas a large number of the Proprietors of Lands in the western part of this our Province of New Hampshire, animated & excited thereto by the generous example of his Excellency their Governor, and by the liberal Contributions of many Noblemen and Gentlemen in England; and especially by the consideration that such a situation would be as convenient as any for carrying on the great design among the Indians; and also considering that without the least impediment to the said design the same School may be enlarged & improved to promote Learning among the English, & be a means to supply a great number of Churches & Congregations which are likely soon to be formed in that new Country with a learned & orthodox ministry; they the said Proprietors have promised large Tracts of Land for the uses aforesaid, provided the School shall be settled in the western part of our said Province. And they the said Right Honorable, Honorable and worthy Trustees before mentioned having maturely consider'd the reasons & arguments in favour of the several Places proposed, have given the preference to the western part of our said Province lying on Connecticut River, as a situation most convenient for said School; And the said Wheelock has further represented a necessity of a legal Incorporation in order to the safety and well being of said Seminary, and its being capable of the tenure & disposal of Lands & bequests for the use of the same. And the said Wheelock has also represented that for many weighty reasons it will be expedient at least in the infancy of said Institution or 'till it can be accommodated in that new Country and he & his Friends be able to remove and settle by and round about it, that the Gentlemen whom he has already nominated in his last Will (which he has transmitted to the aforesaid Gentlemen of the Trust in England) to be Trustees in America should be of the Corporation now proposed & also as there are already large Collections for said School in the hands of the aforesaid Gentlemen of the Trust in England and all reason to believe from their singular wisdom, piety and zeal to promote the Redeemers cause (which has already procured for them the utmost confidence of the Kingdom) we may expect they will appoint Successors in time to come who will be men of the same Spirit whereby great good may & will accrue many ways to the institution & much be done by their example and influence to encourage and facilitate the whole design in view; for which reason said Wheelock desires that the Trustees aforesaid may be vested with all that power therein which can consist with their distance from the same KNOW YE THEREFORE, that We considering the Premises and being willing to encourage the laudable & charitable design of spreading Christian Knowledge among the Savages of our American Wilderness and also that the best means of Education be established in our Province of New Hampshire for the benefit of said Province, do of our special grace certain knowledge and mere motion by and with the advice of our Council for said Province by these Presents Will, ordain, grant & constitute that there be a College erected in our said Province of New Hampshire by the name of DARTMOUTH COLLEGE for the education & instruction of Youth of the Indian Tribes in this Land in reading, writing & all parts of Learning which shall appear necessary and expedient for civilizing & christianizing Children of Pagans as well as in all liberal Arts and Sciences; and also of English Youth and any others, and the Trustees of said College may and shall be one body corporate and politick in deed action & name, and shall be called, named & distinguish'd by the Name of the TRUSTEES of DARTMOUTH COLLEGE And further we have willed given granted constituted and ordained and by this our present Charter of our special grace certain knowledge & mere motion with the advice aforesaid do for us our heirs and successors forever will give grant constitute & ordain that there shall be in the said DARTMOUTH COLLEGE from henceforth and forever a body politick consisting of Trustees of said Dartmouth College And for the more full & perfect erection of said Corporation & body politick consisting of Trustees of Dartmouth College We of our special grace certain knowledge & mere motion Do by these Presents for us our Heirs & Successors make ordain constitute and appoint our trusty and well beloved JOHN WENTWORTH, Esquire Governor of our said Province and the GOVERNOR of our said Province of New Hampshire for the time being and our Trusty and well beloved THEODORE ATKINSON Esquire now President of our Council of our said Province GEORGE JAFFREY & DANIEL PIERCE Esquires both of our said Council and PETER GILMAN Esquire now Speaker of our House of Representatives in said Province & WILLIAM PITKIN, Esquire one of the Assistants of our Colony of Connecticut & our said trusty and well beloved ELEAZER WHELOCK of Lebanon Doctor in Divinity, BENJAMIN POMROY of Hebron JAMES LOCKWOOD of Weathersfield TIMOTHY PITKIN & JOHN SMALLEY of Farmington & WILLIAM PATTEN of Hartford all of our said Colony of Connecticut Ministers of the Gospel. CHAPTER I

THE FOUNDING OF DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

THE story of the founding of Dartmouth College is an heroic romance. Like other early New England institutions, it received much in the way of inspiration and material aid from the Old World. Indirectly, at least, its origin may be traced to Bishop George Berkeley. The great philosopher, becoming discouraged at the decadence of society in Europe, embodied his sentiments in a poem containing the famous line,— and turned his thought toward America. He planned to found a college at Bermuda, in which English and Indian youth should be trained together to furnish satisfactory ministers and missionaries for the New World. The project failed through default of Lord Walpole, in withholding a grant by the government, and Bishop Berkeley, who had resided at Newport in the meantime, gave the remnant of the funds contributed by friends for his enterprise to Yale College, to provide the first foundation for graduate study in the country; a gift which has been characterized by President Noah Porter of Yale as, on the whole, the most important ever received by that institution. The first Berkeley scholars were Eleazar Wheelock and, his brother-in-law, Benjamin Pomeroy. While there is no record that the founder of Dartmouth consciously adopted the plan of his benefactor, the fact is patent that he did so exactly.¹

“Westward the course of empire takes its way,”

Eleazar Wheelock was one of the most resourceful men of his time. He was born in Windham, Conn., April 22, 1711, a descendant in the third generation of Ralph Wheelock of Clare Hall, Cambridge, and probably from Wheelock Manor in Cheshire,¹ an eminent non-conformist preacher, who came to America to escape from persecution. At Dedham, Mass., he participated in the founding of the first free school in America, which he served as teacher; and while himself the progenitor of three college presidents, was associated with Dwight, the progenitor of two presidents of Yale, with Everett, the ancestor of Edward Everett of Harvard, with Fisher, from whom descended Fisher Ames, and the forebears of the Fairbanks' family of Vermont. President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California also is a lineal descendant of Ralph Wheelock.

Eleazar Wheelock graduated from Yale College in 1733, and entered the Congregational ministry in 1735 and settled in Lebanon, Conn., where he soon became eminent in a time remarkable for illustrious men. He took an active part in the Great Awakening, both as a preacher and as a wise counsellor against emotional extravagance; in 1741 he is said to have preached nearly five hundred sermons. His association with George Whitefield led to a warm personal friendship, out of which came important results in his later work. Following the custom of the time, he received young men into his family to be fitted for college. His first effort in behalf of the Indians was the result of an appeal of Samson Oocom's mother for the education of her son, an Indian of the Mohegan tribe. The results of three years' instruction in this case were so remarkable that Wheelock was led to enlarge his efforts in this direction. Indian boys and girls were received at Lebanon, Conn., from various tribes in increasing numbers, with about an equal proportion of white pupils, after the plan laid down by Bishop Berkeley and the only one which has sound learning—a thing (God knows) much wanted. In the same seminary a number of young American savages may also be educated till they have taken the degree of Master of Arts. And being by that time well instructed in the Christian religion, practical mathematics, and other liberal arts and sciences, and early imbued with public-spirited principles and inclinations, they may become the fittest instruments for spreading religion, morals, and civil life among their countrymen, who can entertain no suspicion or jealousy of men of their own blood and language, as they might do of English missionaries, who can never be well qualified for that work." (From a letter of Berkeley to Lord Percival in 1723.)

been confirmed by subsequent experience in Indian education. It involved the complete separation of Indian youth of both sexes from their native environment, and their training in intimate association with white youth, both in literature and in the manual and domestic arts, which would equip them as agents of civilization among the native tribes. Nothing short of this training could overcome the latent tendency in the Indian character to relapse into barbarism.

The creditable work of Occom, and the actual success of the school, soon attracted friends and material support. Gifts came from many sources. A lot of land, with buildings, from Joshua More, placed the enterprise upon a definite foundation in 1755, with the name "More's Indian Charity School." English and Scotch societies for the propagation of the Gospel responded to appeals for aid, as did also the General Association of Congregational Churches of Massachusetts. Most valuable help now came from Whitefield, through whose influence generous philanthropists abroad became interested in the cause. The Marquis of Lothian sent three gifts of fifty pounds each, and the Countess of Huntington gave one hundred pounds. Among the gifts from nearer home was one from Benedict Arnold, of "a large proportion of the profits of a venture which he sent to sea."

The most fruitful source of aid came through a suggestion of Whitefield that the presence in England of an Indian who could preach and give addresses would be of great assistance in awakening interest. Wheelock was quick to see the force of the suggestion, and had in Occom the best possible instrument for putting it into effect. It was unfortunate that Whitefield's further advice was not followed, that Wheelock himself should accompany his agent. "Born diplomat that he was, it is not unlikely that he might have achieved some flattering success."¹ As it was, the mission proved to be the most important event leading to the establishment of the future college. Occom, who has been called "the glory of the Indian nation,"² was a remarkable character. In feature and complexion he bore indubitable marks of his unmixed native blood, but in his demeanor he was dignified and attractive, with a very considerable degree of oratorical and poetical talent. One of his hymns, commencing with the line "Awaked by Sinai's awful sound," still survives in modern collections.

His advent in England in 1766 produced a genuine sensation among all classes. During his visit he preached more than three hundred sermons, and was listened to with great interest by multitudes in the most important churches of England and Scotland. Whitefield threw his whole heart into the mission, and enlisted the interest of Lord Dartmouth, John Thornton, and others, whose friendship did not end with the visit. Occom made the acquaintance of all the leading divines, including the archbishops of York and Canterbury, and was urged to take orders in the Established Church. He received several presents from the King, who probably listened to his preaching, thus furnishing a scene for a great historic painting which some future artist will place among the memorials of the College.

In spite of ecclesiastical jealousies, and the lack of tact in the management of the campaign, the financial results were large for those times. The King headed the subscription with £200, and the whole amount raised was about £11,000. The funds raised in England were placed under a board of trust in 1767, with Lord Dartmouth at its head, and those in Scotland were put in charge of the Society for Propagating Christian Knowledge, where they remain, having increased to some £6,000.

Means having thus been provided, active steps were taken to remove the school from Lebanon, Conn., in order to be nearer the Indian tribes, and also to enlarge its scope and influence. An elaborate plan was presented to the English friends, looking to a location west of the Susquehanna River with a large tract of land, one third of which was to be inalienably secured to the Indians, a liberal portion reserved for the school, the remainder to be settled by chosen people, and the whole to be a borough with appropriate immunities and privileges. At the same time, 1763, a "Narrative"¹ was published giving an account of the work already done.

All plans failed except the one to locate in the upper Connecticut Valley. At this time there was a large movement of Connecticut people to this section, who would make a supporting environment for the enterprise, and there was a reasonable assurance of an opportunity for useful work among the Canadian Indians. John Wentworth, the Colonial Governor of New Hampshire, had become interested through the mission to England, and had offered to give a township to the school if it should be located in that province. He now, in 1768, made a definite proposition to grant a township on the Connecticut River six miles square, where there should be "room and advantage of soil and water to practice, teach and accommodate the necessary studies of agriculture," on merely nominal terms. Old friends on the ground sent hearty invitations, and a lively competition was started among the new towns to secure the location of the school. The claims of Plymouth, Campton, Rumney, Piermont, Lebanon, Plainfield, Claremont, Charlestown, Walpole, and more especially Orford and Haverhill, were considered.

Affairs being thus advanced, Wheelock sent to the Governor a draft of a charter, providing for two sets of trustees,—one in this country for administration; the other in England, with joint power to appoint the President and to control the funds raised in England. The Governor disposed of the suggestion for an English board, but wished to include three provincial officials besides the Governor, together with the Bishop of London. Wheelock's diplomacy was equal to the task of removing these conditions, and he suggested the name of Wentworth for the new institution. This was modestly declined and the name of Dartmouth substituted, out of regard for the favor shown by the Earl of Dartmouth and also, doubtless, to conciliate the English friends who were opposed to the granting of a charter. Wheelock accepted the proposed name and with a kind of prophetic sense inserted into his communication to the Governor the words: "Sir, if proper to use the word 'college' instead of 'academy' in the charter, I shall be well pleased with it." This apparently innocent clause in a postscript led to the establishment of Dartmouth College.

The charter bears the date of December 13, 1769, and in breadth, insight, and foresight is a most remarkable instrument, justifying the praise of Mr. Webster that "a charter of more liberal sentiments, of wiser provisions, drawn with more care, or in a better spirit, could not be expected at any time or from any other source." It has proved adequate to all the needs of the expanding institution and promises to meet all future needs without material amendment. The Board of Trustees was made self-perpetuating, limited to twelve members, including the Governor, eight to be residents of the State and seven laymen. At first the income was limited to £6,000 per year, but since July 13, 1883, all restriction has been removed.

With the charter went also a grant of the town of Landaff, previously bestowed, but supposed to have been forfeited. The charter did not mention the town in which the College should be located, and Wheelock gave eight weeks to personal inspection of the region, finally making choice of Hanover. It was especially fortunate that the location was not fixed in Landaff, as the title proved defective, and the land, together with $10,000 spent on it, was lost.

Obstacles did not all disappear with the settlement of these important details. The disappointed towns vented their feelings in misrepresentation and vilification, declaring that the whole enterprise was a scheme for the aggrandizement of the Wheelock family. Unjust as this was, in view of the self-sacrificing character of the work, the report gained some currency, alienated friends for a time, and added to the dissatisfaction in England over the granting of the charter and the use of funds raised there, apparently for another purpose. While the extravagance of the abuse tended to neutralize its effect, it continued to irritate, and is recalled here only to show one of the shadows on the background of an heroic canvas. The natural difficulties in the way of the undertaking would seem to have been sufficient to daunt a man already in the sixty-first year of his age, but there was no flinching or hesitation. Within a month of the date of the choice of location, Wheelock was on his way to Hanover, with laborers and teams, where they arrived early in August, 1770. Workmen who preceded him had felled a few trees, but otherwise the region was virgin wilderness, covered with pines, some of them nearly three hundred feet high, with no house east of the river "within two miles, through one continuous dreary wood."

Ground was first broken near where the Tri Kappa house now stands on North Main Street, near the corner of Webster Avenue. Says Wheelock: "I made a hut of logs about eighteen feet square, without stone, brick, glass or nail, and with thirty, forty and sometimes fifty laborers appointed to their respective departments. I betook myself to a campaign."¹ Failure to secure water soon necessitated a removal near to the place where Reed Hall now stands. In the meantime Mrs. Wheelock, with Tutor Woodward and about thirty students, was making a romantic journey up the valley. A carriage given by John Thornton now proved opportune, and the little company, among whom were at least four negro slaves, came upon the scene when slight provision had been made for them.

Rude buildings were erected on the southeast part of the present campus sufficient to afford tolerable accommodation before winter. In this little clearing, where the felled timber covered the ground to a considerable depth, and from which the surrounding forest hid the sun until near the zenith, the little colony spent the first season. The snow maintained a depth of four feet for four or five months, but hard study and good cheer prevailed; and sometimes devotional services were held in the open air, the little space, walled with pines and roofed with the sky, furnishing a rude but sublime chapel. A deep religious interest leavened the whole community, and on the 23d of January, 1771, a church of twenty-seven members was formed. The temper and spirit of this time is reflected in some lines by one of the students,—

“Thus Dartmouth, happy in her sylvan seat,
Drinks the pure pleasures of her fair retreat.
Her songs of praise in notes melodious rise
Like clouds of incense to the skies.
Her God protects her with paternal care
From ills destructive and each fatal snare;
And may He still protect, and she adore,
Till heaven, and earth, and time shall be no more.”

Only two of Wheelock's Indian pupils went with him to Hanover, and efforts were at once made to secure a new supply. Former students, as missionaries and teachers among the New York tribes, had made a considerable impression, which was of inestimable value in the stirring times soon to come; but the jealous interference of representatives of the Established Church, and other reasons, tended to discourage the attendance of Indians from that vicinity. The Jesuits exerted a somewhat similar influence upon the Canadian tribes. Still a considerable degree of success attended Wheelock's enterprise, and at one time the number present reached a score; about half of whom, being quite young, were formed into an aboriginal kindergarten. That the success was not greater was through no fault of purpose or of method, but was due to the distraction incident to the War of the Revolution. Missionaries and teachers, graduates of Wheelock's Lebanon school, continued to do good work, and several of the Indians became worthy characters, among whom may be mentioned the two Fowlers, Joseph Johnson, and others, who did a noble work among their people and rendered valuable service to the country. Joseph Brant, who was himself a member of the school in Connecticut, afterward sent his sons to Hanover, as did some of the St. Francis chiefs. The last Indian to graduate was Dr. Charles A. Eastman, in 1887, a native Sioux, who is rendering good service to his people and to the country.

The course of events, rather than a change or failure of purpose on the part of the founder, turned the Indian school into an English college. Funds derived from England reduced the difficulties of what otherwise would have been an impossible situation, yet enough remained to have overtaxed any but the most resourceful men. Supplies had to be brought from a distance, lands cleared and fitted for cultivation, buildings erected, an extensive correspondence conducted, tangled details of administration unravelled, jealous opposition delicately overcome, all of which was accomplished with a degree of success remarkable under the circumstances.

The first commencement was held in the summer of 1771. Four men who had been entered at Yale for three years took their degrees; and the occasion, extraordinary in itself, was made more notable by the presence of the Colonial Governor Wentworth, who with a retinue of sixty had ridden through the wilderness from Portsmouth. A barbecue was set up by the visitors on the campus, together with a barrel of rum, and the Governor gave to the President, as a memorial, a large silver punch bowl, which is still preserved.

Severe as were the conditions, a spice of gayety was not wholly wanting. Studying the classics and philosophy by the light of pine knots, around one of those large open fires, must have had its novel as well as heroic side. Then, John Ledyard was there, with his calico curtains for improvised theatricals, his penchant for adventures with the Indians and camping out in the snow, all serving as a preparation for his world-wide travels, upon which he set out from Hanover on the Connecticut, in a canoe of his own making. Steve Burroughs, that prince of wags, furnished the jester for the play. One of the first petitions from the students to the Faculty was for the privilege of "stepping the minuet and learning the sword," no answer to which is on record.

Naturally, there was little occasion for anything but strenuous effort, and this soon bore fruit. In spite of difficulties and opposition, a good degree of success attended the enterprise from the first, and the progress in attendance and reputation was encouraging. Commencing with a score of students, the number trebled in two years, and in two years more had risen to a hundred, while in some quarters "Dartmouth was generally esteemed the best college on the continent." There were in this remote and lean community ninety-nine graduates the first decade, 1771-1781, while the first ten years at Harvard, 1642-1652, under the most favorable conditions the country could furnish, produced but fifty-six, and at Yale, 1701-1711, there were but thirty-five. Dartmouth kept her doors open during the Revolution and never passed an anniversary without conferring degrees. From the first, the democratic spirit was pronounced. Labor was mingled with study, and it was contrary to the law of the institution "to speak diminutively of the practice of labor, or by any means to cast contempt upon it, or by word or active endeavor to discredit or discourage the same on penalty of being obliged at the discretion of the President or tutor to perform the same or its equivalent." This has continued to be an essential element of the Dartmouth spirit.

Obstacles, however, grew faster than the College. The English funds were exhausted before very long, and though Mr. Thornton and others added more than £1,000, the problem of self-support had to be faced. War with the British put an end to all supplies from that source, and the departure of Governor Wentworth was the greatest loss of all. For years the resources of the colonies were turned into the struggle for independence, leaving but little for other purposes. Under the circumstances some tendency towards loyalty to the Crown might have been expected, but there was no hesitation or shrinking, and it is not known that there was ever a Tory in Hanover. There can be no doubt that the war changed the career of the College, and perhaps it is not too much to claim that the institution had some influence in shaping the course of events. It is unprofitable to speculate as to what would have been the result if access to the Indians had remained open, the stream of beneficence from abroad continued, and the support of the Colonial Governor remained unimpaired. Certainly it would have been different. Fortunately or unfortunately the Indian school was turned into an English college. Favorable location, the friendship of the Indians, or other causes, enabled the little settlement to pass through the whole period of the war without nearer approach of its horrors than Bunker Hill, the sound of which conflict was actually heard,¹ and the attack upon Royalton. The College community bore its full share of service and sacrifice, assuming the bonds of non-intercourse with England, furnishing men and supplies for the army, and rendering service of special value in scouting. So highly was this estimated by Congress that more than once appropriations were made out of the scant resources of the country for the support of the institution as a means of defence on the frontier.

While the first object of Dr. Wheelock and his associates was educational and religious, they were scarcely less active in civil affairs. Aside from those at the College, there was in the vicinity a group of remarkable men: The Chases of Cornish, Payne of Lebanon, Marsh of Hartford, Olcott of Norwich, Morey of Orford, Bailey and Hazen of Newbury and others. The newly organized state government treated the section in a very arbitrary manner, allowing it a very unequal share in representation. This privilege had to be stoutly contended for, and though finally won, the strained relations left a legacy of ill feeling from which the College continued to suffer for many years. For a time its officers were made ineligible to membership in the Legislature, and it is not impossible that the loss of Landaff might otherwise have been prevented. Throughout the long contention over the "Grants," when the towns on both sides of the river were drawn now one way and now another, and at one time were erected into the State of New Connecticut, the "College Hall" was the center of the fight, whence went forth the declarations of principles, and where the plans were laid for their establishment.² Here was set up the Dresden Press, whence issued the "Mercury" and those Fabian pamphlets, rare as Caxtons now, and commanding nearly as high prices. That the design of founding a separate State failed, was not from lack of courage or persistence shown by the "College Party," but was due to the "practical politics" of the Allens in Vermont, backed by General Washington and the Continental Congress at Philadelphia. That success would have been better than failure in the long run is not clear; still one cannot help thinking what might have been, with a State including both slopes of the Connecticut Valley, its capital at Hanover, and a city at Olcott Falls (now named Wilder) and White River Junction.

A decade of such trials and activities exhausted the remaining energies of Dr. Wheelock. After five years of increasing weakness, which he bore with heroic fortitude, he died January 24, 1779, at the age of sixty-eight. By extraordinary exertions and consummate ability he had placed the institution upon a sure foundation, and given it an impulse and character which it has ever retained, though no vestige of the material structure has survived except the President's house, formerly on the site of Reed Hall, now the Howe Library. So narrow was the margin of success that the Treasurer, at the close of the first administration, asserted that the institution was actually insolvent. During this period the Faculty consisted of the President and three tutors, and the course of study was extremely limited as compared with more recent standards. The College was the creation of its founder, and bore the stamp of his personality; jealousy and criticism were inevitable; but the verdict of time has confirmed the estimate expressed in the epitaph on the too humble slab that marks his grave,—

"By the Gospel he subdued the ferocity of the savage;
And to the civilized he opened new paths of science.

Traveller,

Go, if you can, and deserve
The sublime reward of such merit."

A provision in the charter allowed the first President to name his successor, and John Wheelock, his son, was appointed to the office. He had been associated with the enterprise from the first, as pupil or tutor, and had achieved honorable distinction as a politician and an officer in the army. Twenty-five years of age, and well equipped for the service, he nevertheless entered upon it with great hesitation, as well he might. Buildings were in a poor state of preservation, resources were exhausted, and students few. Considerable obscurity rests upon the early history of his administration, but that he was a worthy son of his father is attested by the facts that an almost hopeless situation was soon under control, and that for the long period of thirty-six years his administration was successfully maintained. The Faculty was enlarged, the curriculum extended, new buildings provided, the Medical Department established, and considerable endowment secured. The President visited Europe in 1782, seeking aid for the institution in France, Holland, and England; but though he was equipped with credentials from Washington and from prominent men of nearly all the States, the effort met with but little success. The time was not propitious, and whatever collections were made disappeared in a shipwreck on the return voyage. Unsuccessful appeals were made to Congress, but New Hampshire and Vermont both furnished some relief. Two grants of land were made by the State of New Hampshire in 1789 and 1807, supplying some compensation for the loss of Landaff; one of these is still a source of considerable income, but the other, together with grants from different sources, was disposed of prematurely under pressure of necessity. Vermont, in 1785, granted a township named after the founder, a small portion of which is still productive in the form of rentals.

Dartmouth Hall was erected during this administration. At first a more ambitious structure was contemplated, designed after Nassau Hall at Princeton, and to be built of stone. The result was achieved only after considerable curtailment of plans and a long agony of effort, in which a lottery was conspicuous; it took seven years to complete the structure, 1784 to 1791. A chapel also was built on the present site of Thornton Hall, a remnant of which, it is claimed, survives as a part of a stable in the northern part of the village. In 1783 and 1786 were formed the literary fraternities known as the Social Friends and the United Fraternity, which contributed greatly to the rhetorical training of the early Dartmouth men, and rendered a still more important service in furnishing the effective library resources of the College for a hundred years.

The Medical School was established in 1798, and hence is one of the oldest institutions of its kind in the country. Its founder, Dr. Nathan Smith, was a hardly less remarkable character than Eleazar Wheelock, and the institution has always had connected with it men of the highest ability and most extended reputation. Judged by literary and scholastic results, this period, 1779-1815, was the most illustrious in the history of the College, or, it may fairly be said, of any other similar institution during a corresponding period. This appears both in the number of the students and in the extraordinary brilliancy of their subsequent records. At the close of the war the attendance had fallen to a total of thirty, but in six years it rose to one hundred, and in ten years to one hundred and sixty. In 1791 Dartmouth conferred the degree of A.B. upon forty-nine men, while Harvard and Yale each conferred the same degree upon twenty-seven and Princeton upon twenty-five. During the decade from 1790 to 1800 Dartmouth graduated 363, Harvard 394, Yale 295, and Princeton 240. Comparison may be challenged with equal confidence in regard to distinguished alumni. Within two decades of the opening of the century occur the names of George Ticknor, Sylvanus Thayer, Daniel Webster, Thaddeus Stevens, Rufus Choate, and George P. Marsh. An administration so straitened in resources and so fruitful in results is conclusive proof of superior administrative personality. Whatever may have been the faults of the second Wheelock,—and they appear to have been emphasized more than his virtues,—in the light of such illustrious services they well may be forgotten. His closing days were embittered by a controversy which nearly wrecked the institution, but out of which indirectly came results of sufficient value to repay the cost of the struggle.

CHAPTER II

THE DARTMOUTH COLLEGE CASE

IT has been the singular fortune of this College that its misfortunes have been the occasions of its highest usefulness and distinction. Impending failure in Connecticut necessitated its removal to New Hampshire. The emergencies of the Revolution, while threatening its existence, gave it opportunities of usefulness which made it of national importance and changed it from an Indian charity school to an American college of the first rank. And so the controversies into which it was thrown under the administration of the second Wheelock were the occasion of making it the center of one of the most dramatic events in the history of American jurisprudence, and also of the settling from that time of the conditions of safety for trust funds throughout the country. The College gave the Supreme Court its largest case and the court its greatest advocate to win it. In the language of Chancellor Kent, "The decision in that case did more than any other single act proceeding from the authority of the United States to throw an impregnable barrier around all rights and franchises derived from the grant of government; and to give solidity and inviolability to the literary, charitable, religious, and commercial institutions of our country." Although changed conditions incident to the rise of great manufacturing and commercial corporations, characterized by Mr. Justice Cooley as "the most enormous and threatening powers of our country—having greater influence in the country at large and upon the legislation of the country than the States to which they owe their corporate existence," have led the court to modify and limit its application (for statement of the doctrine of the Dartmouth College case and the way in which it has been modified, qualified and limited by later decisions of the Supreme Court, see address by William P. Wells entitled "The Dartmouth College Case" in reports of the American Bar Association for 1886, Vol. IX, page 229), still the estimate of Senator Lodge will not be questioned when he calls this "decision in its effects more far-reaching and of more general interest than perhaps any other ever made in this country." The importance of "The Dartmouth College Case" as a judicial precedent is shown by the fact, duly verified, that it has been more frequently cited in the American courts since 1819 than any other single case.

The causes which led to the controversy are numerous and varied, —personal, religious, and political. The College at first was Wheelock. He made it and it was his, the reflection of his own personality. He had wise men associated with him, but they were remote, and naturally trusted him to administer what he had created. At first no one of the trustees except Wheelock lived within a hundred miles of the College. A journey from Portsmouth or Connecticut then was equivalent to one from San Francisco now. What began as one man's creation naturally continued as a one-man power. Changes in the personnel of the board did not at first interfere with this condition of things. One of the charter members was Wheelock's brother-in-law, Dr. Benjamin Pomeroy. His son-in-law, Bezaleel Woodward, was elected in 1773, together with Dr. Eben Burroughs, the first tenet of whose creed was absolute trust in Wheelock's judgment. Professor Sylvanus Ripley, another son-in-law, was elected in 1775. Under these conditions the action of the board must have been singularly harmonious, as the distant trustees seldom attended. In the Faculty the condition was the same. Here were two sons, two sons-in-law, and Professor John Smith, practically a member of the President's family and deferential to his wishes. The power of a person became that of a family. And this was continued by the will of the founder, who, under the authority vested in him by the charter, appointed his son to the office of President. Having been associated with his father in the government of the College, and also having been an officer in the army, it was but natural that John Wheelock should consider himself his father's successor in every respect. This view of the case seems to have been accepted by all parties and to have prevailed for many years. But gradually some of the members of the board began to tire of an autocracy or family régime in which they were only nominal members. Relations first became strained through church difficulties. The elder Wheelock originally was a Congregationalist, and as such had done signal service as a pastor and evangelist, but on coming to Hanover he had adopted the Presbyterian form. The reasons for this are not clear, but it is probable that he felt that he could thus work more harmoniously with the society which controlled the Scotch fund; also that this form was more acceptable to Governor Wentworth, who, though a Churchman, was more favorable to Presbyterians than to Congregationalists, to whom he had persistently refused to grant a charter for a college. It is noticeable that no New Hampshire ministers were on the original board. It is possible, also, that Dr. Wheelock had become disaffected in some measure with his former associations, on account of the liberalizing tendency of the Half-way Covenant, and desired a polity with stricter discipline. His parish in Connecticut had a large Scotch element in it.

The church at the College for a time consisted of two branches, one at Hanover, and the other in Hartford, Vermont. After a time the Vermont branch erected a house of worship, but the Lord's Supper was celebrated sometimes in one place and sometimes in the other. Though the members called themselves Presbyterians, they often had church meetings more after the Congregational order. Professor Smith was the preacher, with whose ministrations the people at Hanover had become dissatisfied. On the appointment of Dr. Worcester as Professor of Divinity the Hartford people met and voted that Professor Smith was, and that they desired him to continue to be, their pastor. This was probably intended to prevent Dr. Worcester's acceptance of the professorship. He declined, and Roswell Shurtleff was appointed Professor of Divinity in 1804. After long correspondence, and councils, mutual and ex parte, an ambiguous result was reached under which the Hanover people claimed the right of independence, and organized under Congregational form. The President and Professor Smith still favored the Presbyterian form and opposed the new church, in which now they would be in a minority, and the fight grew hot. For ten years it continued local, though a disturbing factor in the church, the village, and the College. Then the general public became involved. The contention raged throughout the State, first in pamphlets, then in the press, holding as large a place in the newspapers as politics. Finally by the year 1815 the issue became political, the Federalists being largely Congregationalists and the Republicans Presbyterians. The former defended the majority of the Trustees and the Faculty, the latter the President and the minority. The Congregationalists were then practically a State church, and with one or two exceptions their ministers were Federalists. Their property was exempt from taxation, but all the people were taxed for the support of the churches of the standing order, unless they could prove actual connection elsewhere. The struggle for religious toleration was going on in the State at this time, culminating in the Act of June 22, 1819; and this helped to complicate the question at issue.

Finally the President appealed to the Legislature to redress his grievances, charging the other party with the violation of religious ordinances, the perversion of the Phillips fund, and the usurpation of the powers of government and instruction in the College. His opponents claimed a share in the government and instruction of the College, and appealed to the charter to sustain their contention.

The complexion of the Board of Trustees had changed greatly since the death of the elder Wheelock. In 1793 Judge Nathaniel Niles came into the board. He was a pupil and disciple of Dr. Bellamy, a famous theologian, with whom Dr. Wheelock had been in sharp controversy. This antagonism was renewed in the persons of John Wheelock and Judge Niles, neither of whom was of a nature to let controversy sleep, or to yield anything for the sake of peace. Judge Niles was a remarkable personality. Jefferson is reported to have said of him, "He was the ablest man I ever knew." Shirley says: "He was a man of angles and opposites, one who read everything, remembered and questioned it. He was an inventor, manufacturer, poet, lawyer, priest, physician, and metaphysician,—a man of great and varied powers." His advent was a challenge to the "family dynasty."¹ In 1802 Thomas W. Thompson was elected to the board, the leading managing politician of the Federal party in New Hampshire, rich and courtly, a gentleman of the old school. He had been the patron and legal instructor of Daniel Webster, and was one of his most intimate friends. Judge Timothy Farrar, leading Federalist, fellow-student, and partner of Webster, was elected in 1804. In 1806 Elijah Paine was chosen, a graduate of Harvard, where he was the first president and orator of the Phi Beta Kappa, a leading character in Vermont, a giant physically and mentally. Judge Charles Marsh, of Woodstock, Vt., an alumnus of the class of 1786, was appointed in 1809. He was an intense Federalist, cousin of Jeremiah Mason, father of George P. Marsh, keen, courageous, a champion of open dealing. "Nothing short of divine power," says Shirley, "could control such men."

The opposition to the President was led in the Faculty by Professor Shurtleff, in the Board of Trustees by Judge Niles. In 1809 they secured a majority in the board, through the death of Professor Smith and the accession of the vote of Governor Smith. They took care that no friend of the administration should be elected thereafter. The battle was now joined, and the issue, however named, was that of the continuance or overthrow of the "family dynasty."

Active hostilities commenced in 1815 in the form of a pamphlet war, opening with one entitled "Sketches of the History of Dartmouth College and Moor's Charity School, with a Particular Account of Some Late Remarkable Proceedings of the Board of Trustees, from the Year 1779 to the Year 1815." This probably was from the pen of President Wheelock, and was followed by one from Dr. Parish, one of the biographers of the elder Wheelock, entitled "A Candid Analytical Review of the Sketches of the History of Dartmouth College," etc. The newspapers soon became filled with the controversy. A committee of the Congregational Church at Hanover, consisting of Benoni Dewey, James Wheelock, and Benjamin Gilbert, replied to the "Sketches," with "A True and Concise Narrative of the Origin and Progress of the Church Difficulties in the Vicinity of Dartmouth College in Hanover." The trustees followed with "A Vindication of the Official Conduct of the Trustees of Dartmouth College," etc., written by Charles Marsh. This was answered by Peyton R. Freeman, Esq., of Portsmouth, in "A Refutation of Sundry Aspersions in the Vindication," etc. Col. Josiah Dunham, of Windsor, Vermont, also published "An Answer to the 'Vindication of the Official Conduct of the Trustees of Dartmouth College,' in Confirmation of the Sketches, with Remarks on the Removal of President Wheelock."

Wheelock began to think of seeking relief through legal proceedings. Naturally he turned to Mr. Webster, who was then favorable to him. He was consulted and retained. In 1815 Wheelock memorialized the Legislature, charging that the Trustees had violated the charter by the perversion of funds and the transformation of religious order, and praying for the appointment of a committee to redress grievances. In spite of the opposition of the Trustees, a committee was appointed "to investigate the concerns of Dartmouth College and Moor's Charity School." As soon as Wheelock learned of the hearing, he requested Mr. Webster to appear in his behalf. He failed to do so, for the reason undoubtedly that the political relations of the case had greater weight with him than the personal desire to assist Wheelock, though he claimed that he was under no professional bond to appear before a committee.¹ Naturally this ended his relations with Wheelock and identified him thereafter with the Trustees.

Without waiting for the report of the legislative committee, and in the face of Mr. Jeremiah Mason's advice to the contrary, the Trustees removed the President from office August 26, 1815, and elected the Rev. Francis Brown in his place. That they had much to provoke them to their action, there can be no doubt; but the haste and bitterness of spirit in which it was pushed through cannot be recalled without regret. As Dr. Bartlett has said, "As usual in great excitements, most of the combatants lost their poise; it was a whole chapter of blunders, not a 'comedy,' but almost a tragedy of 'errors.'"²

After the removal, Wheelock and his friends went over to the Democrats, and the Federalists were defeated in the next gubernatorial election in 1815. Governor Plumer, who was then elected, was a warm friend to Wheelock, and in his message urged the reconstruction of the College. The Trustees argued and remonstrated in vain; the Governor's recommendation prevailed. The name of the institution was changed to Dartmouth University; the number of Trustees was increased to twenty-one; a board of overseers was instituted, twenty-five in number, including as ex officio members the Governor and Council, the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House, and the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor of Vermont. The new boards were appointed, and Wheelock was made President of the University. The old Trustees refused to yield to the Legislature and accept positions in the new board. In President Brown they had a leader of supreme excellence. The men on the board who had overthrown Wheelock were well able to cope with the Legislature, even with Governor Plumer at its head. A campaign was entered upon to influence public opinion. The College party sought to secure certain newspapers in its interest, and the University party to silence or win over those Federalists who still adhered to Wheelock. The Governor immediately convened the new boards at Hanover, August 6, 1816, and President Brown was summoned to preside over their meetings. The old board formally refused to accept the act of the Legislature, declined to serve under it, and removed William H. Woodward, class of 1792, who was to become defendant in the famous case, from the office of Secretary and Treasurer. The new board elected him as its Secretary and Treasurer and thus secured possession of the College property. The old board elected Mills Olcott Secretary and Treasurer, and empowered him to demand of Judge Woodward the possession of the property, and "evidences of property," in his hands, belonging to the College.

¹ "I received the President's letter, desiring me to be at Hanover at a time which had then already elapsed. If I had received it earlier, I could not have attended, because the court engaged me at home; and I ought to add here, that if I had had no other engagements at the time, and had also been seasonably notified, I should have exercised my own discretion about undertaking to act a part before the committee at Hanover. I regard that as no professional call."—Webster's letter to Dunham.

The University board, failing to secure a quorum, adjourned for the purpose of filling vacancies. Application was made by the Governor and Council to the Superior Court for an opinion as to whether the Legislature was competent to amend the charter of literary corporations in cases like the one in question, and as to the competency of the Governor and Council to fill vacancies in the boards of Trustees and Overseers in virtue of the Act of June 27, 1816. The court declined to answer the first question, on the ground that its prerogative did not extend to mere questions of right between the Legislature and individuals, and expressed a negative opinion upon the second.

Upon the Governor's recommendation that large powers be given to the new boards, the Legislature voted, December 18, 1816, that the Governor have power to convene the new boards and to fill vacancies in the Board of Trustees, that the number constituting a quorum be lowered, and that any number less than a quorum, having met, might adjourn from time to time until a quorum should be secured. By another vote, a fine of five hundred dollars was imposed upon any of the old officers who should persist in the performance of their functions. Vacancies were filled; the old officers were expelled, except Woodward; the University was organized with John Wheelock as President and Professor William Allen, Acting President in view of the ill health of the President.

The odds were heavy against the old administration, but the Trustees having taken counsel, and having received the gift of one thousand dollars from John B. Wheeler, of Orford, it was determined to fight. This gift was most opportune. Said Professor Ebenezer Adams: "If it had not been for this unsolicited, unsuspected, unthought-of aid, the great case of Dartmouth College would not have been commenced." The first action was for trover, brought in the Court of Common Pleas by the Trustees of Dartmouth College against William H. Woodward, for converting divers books and records, the original charter, and the common seal, books of account, bonds, notes, etc. Damages were placed at $50,000. Woodward being himself judge of the Court of Common Pleas, the case could not come before him, and the formal pleadings, by agreement of counsel, were filed for the purpose of taking the case directly to the Superior Court. The declaration amended was: "Trover for two books of records purporting to contain the records of all the doings and proceedings of the trustees of Dartmouth College, from the organization of the Corporation until the 7th day of October, 1816, of the value of $5,000; the original charter, a letter patent, constituting the College, of the value of $10,000; the common seal, of the value of $1,000; and four volumes of books of accounts purporting to contain the charges and accounts in favor of the College, of the value of $10,000."

The case was argued at Haverhill at the spring term, 1817, Mr. Mason and Jeremiah Smith appearing for the Trustees, and George Sullivan and Ichabod Bartlett for Woodward. It was continued at the fall term at Exeter, when Mr. Webster came into the case for the College. Mr. Mason argued the case on the following points. The acts of the Legislature are not obligatory,—

1. Because they are not within the general scope of legislative power.

2. Because they violate certain provisions of the Constitution of this State, restraining the legislative power.

3. Because they violate the Constitution of the United States.

He devoted nearly two-thirds of his time to the first point, distinguishing between civil and eleemosynary corporations, claiming that the College belonged to the latter class. As the King could not abolish a corporation without its consent, so the Legislature, which succeeded to his power in the colony, could not do so without a trial in due course of law. He claimed that the Legislature had violated Article XV of the State Constitution, in the legem terræ clause; Article XXIII, which prohibits the passage of "retrospective laws," and Article XXVIII of the Bill of Rights, which declares that the three essential powers of government ought to be kept separate. He also urged that the grant was a "contract" within the meaning of the Constitution of the United States, and was impaired by the acts of the Legislature. Judge Smith argued that chartered right had been infringed in the change of name, as it involved a change of thing. Universities like Oxford might be civil corporations, but colleges like Dartmouth were eleemosynary, having originated from private funds. Mr. Sullivan, on the other side, contended that the College was a public corporation, because it was for the benefit of the public and not of the persons composing it. Mr. Bartlett claimed that while the contention of the plaintiffs might apply to Moor's Charity School, it did not apply to Dartmouth College, and that the grant did not come within the meaning of the "obligation" clause of the United States Constitution.

Mr. Webster's speech was never reported, he refusing to furnish notes for the purpose, but from local tradition and contemporary prints and letters, it must have been one of the supreme efforts of his life. All those supernal energies which only the highest occasion could awaken were brought into exercise. Then, the case involved those high constitutional relations which were to furnish the arena for his future triumphs. All these causes combined to produce a display of legal reasoning, lofty eloquence, and pathetic appeal, closing with the famous passage on Brutus in the senate house, that, according to tradition, left the court in tears.

Aside from Mr. Webster's work, the case was much more ably argued at Exeter than afterwards at Washington. Mr. Mason's intellectual dimensions far exceeded his physical, though he was six feet four inches in height and well proportioned. Webster more than once asserted that as a lawyer and jurist he was unequalled. Smith was but little below him in learning or natural ability. Sullivan was a natural orator, and very effective as a special pleader. Bartlett was little in stature, but keen, industrious, audacious, and witty.

More than three hundred references to cases were made by the counsel, but, notwithstanding the ability and effort in behalf of the College, the decision of the State court was adverse, on the ground that the Corporation of Dartmouth College was a public corporation, that the act of the Legislature was not repugnant to the law of the State, and that the charter was not a contract within the meaning of the "obligation" clause of the national Constitution.

Sufficient attention has not been given to the distinguished ability of the State court. Its Chief Justice, Richardson, has been called the greatest judge New Hampshire ever had. He was a graduate of Harvard, Member of Congress from Massachusetts, Chief Justice of the highest New Hampshire court from 1816 to 1838. Physically, he resembled Marshall. Justice Bell, class of 1793, was Judge from 1816 to 1819; Governor from 1819 to 1823, and United States Senator from 1823 to 1835. He was characterized by great courage, learning, and business capacity. Justice Woodbury, class of 1809, held the offices of Judge, Governor, United States Senator, Secretary of the Navy, Secretary of the Treasury, and Justice of the United States Supreme Court. Mr. Mason said, "Three more men so well qualified . . . could not be found in the State." Even Mr. Webster said of their opinion, "The truth is, the New Hampshire opinion is able, ingenious, and plausible."

After considerable effort the counsel agreed upon a special verdict, upon which the case was carried to the Supreme Court at Washington, on the single point that the Legislature had violated the provision of the national Constitution which forbids "impairing the obligations of contracts." This point which, curiously enough, had been raised first by Wheelock years before, was given but little weight in the State court. Their main contention had been that the College was founded by private persons for particular uses; that the charter was given to perpetuate such uses; that the Trustees were amenable to the courts for misconduct, and that the Legislature had transcended its power (Parson's view). Fearing lest the case should fail upon its one point, Webster devised several cases which involved what he considered the essential points at issue, which might, if necessary, through the Circuit Court, bring the whole question before the Supreme Court.

For some unknown reason Messrs. Mason and Smith did not go to Washington, but the whole case was intrusted to Mr. Webster, who employed Joseph Hopkinson, an eminent lawyer of Philadelphia, to assist him. Judge Hopkinson's ability was unquestioned, though perhaps his patriotism was more widely recognized through his national song, "Hail Columbia!" which was still in the glow of its early popularity. None of the counsel for the State were before the Supreme Court, but with singular misjudgment its case was committed to John Holmes, a Democratic politician from Maine, and Attorney-General Wirt, who, in the midst of public cares, could not get into the heart of the case, much less get his heart into it, and his mere rhetoric did not count for much. The case came on to be argued before the Supreme Court at Washington on March 10, 1818. Hopkinson made as good a legal argument as any one without personal interest in the College could have done. But the great work was done by Mr. Webster. His whole mind, heart, and soul were in the cause. He had raised money among his friends to defray the expenses. He had at his disposal all the wealth of material which the affluent learning and profound wisdom of Mason and Smith had accumulated, and which his own memory and legal knowledge could furnish. All this, transfused in the alembic of his genius, he poured forth in a resistless tide of oratory for five hours. He contended that the acts of the New Hampshire Legislature were not valid and binding upon the Trustees, without their consent: 1. Because they are against common right, and the Constitution of New Hampshire; 2. Because they are repugnant to the Constitution of the United States.

The printed reports of his speech are very inadequate. "Something was left out," he says. Probably a fifth of the whole. With an audacity that might not have been tolerated in another, he devoted three fourths of his legal argument to points which belonged to the Circuit Court cases, and which were not before the Supreme Court at all. It was a masterly display of a most consummate knowledge of men. The Chief Justice and one judge were favorable, two were hostile, the other three were open to conviction. Some have thought that the judgment of Chief Justice Marshall was swayed by an appeal to his political feeling. Such a suggestion is unnecessary. That his sympathies were profoundly stirred is very likely, and that Mr. Webster may have deepened them by skillfully using the political situation, is not unlikely. Senator Lodge says: "In occasional sentences he pictured his beloved College under the wise rule of Federalists and of the church. He depicted the party assault that was made upon her. He showed the citadel of learning threatened with unholy invasion, and falling helplessly into the hands of Jacobins and free-thinkers. As the tide of his resistless and solemn eloquence, mingled with his masterly argument, flowed on, we can imagine how the great Chief Justice roused like an old war-horse at the sound of the trumpet. The words of the speaker carried him back to the early days of the century, when in the full flush of manhood, at the head of his court, the last stronghold of Federalism, the last bulwark of sound government, he had faced the power of the triumphant Democrats. Once more it was Marshall against Jefferson,—the judge against the President. Then he had preserved the ark of the Constitution. Then he had seen the angry waves of popular feeling breaking vainly at his feet. Now, in his old age the conflict was revived. Jacobinism was raising its sacrilegious hand against the temples of learning, against the friends of order and good government. The joy of battle must have glowed once more in the old man's breast as he grasped anew his weapons and prepared with all the force of his indomitable will to raise yet another constitutional barrier across the path of his ancient enemies.”¹

The close of the argument was a noble burst of emotional eloquence in which the cause was carried into the region of the higher law and placed in all its relations to the eternal principles of righteousness. We are indebted to Mr. Goodrich for a description of the closing scene, which before long we trust some great painter will put upon canvas:² “Mr. Webster entered upon his argument in the calm tone of easy and dignified conversation. His matter was so completely at his command that he scarcely looked at his brief, but went on for more than four hours with a statement so luminous, and a chain of reasoning so easy to be understood, and yet approaching so nearly to absolute demonstration, that he seemed to carry with him every man of his audience, without the slightest effort or uneasiness on either side. I observed Judge Story sit, pen in hand, as if to take notes. Hour after hour I saw him fixed in the same attitude; but I could not discover that he made a single note. The argument ended, Mr. Webster stood for some moments silent before the court, while every eye was fixed intently upon him. At length, addressing Chief Justice Marshall, he said,—

“This, sir, is my case. It is the case, not merely of that humble institution, it is the case of every college in our land. It is more. It is the case of every eleemosynary institution throughout our country, of all those great charities founded by the piety of our ancestors to alleviate human misery, and scatter blessings along the pathway of human life. It is more. It is, in some sense, the case of every man who has property of which he may be stripped,—for the question is simply this: Shall our State legislatures be allowed to take that which is not their own, to turn it from its original use, and apply it to such ends or purposes as they, in their discretion, shall see fit? Sir, you may destroy this little institution; it is weak; it is in your hands! I know it is one of the lesser lights in the literary horizon of our country. You may put it out; but if you do, you must carry through your work! You must extinguish, one after another, all those great lights of science which, for more than a century, have thrown their radiance over the land! It is, sir, as I have said, a small college, and yet there are those that love it—”

“Here the feelings which he had thus far succeeded in keeping down, broke forth. His lips quivered; his firm cheeks trembled with emotion; his eyes were filled with tears; his voice choked, and he seemed struggling to the utmost, simply to gain the mastery over himself which might save him from an unmanly burst of feeling. I will not attempt to give you the few broken words of tenderness in which he went on to speak of his attachment to the College. The whole seemed to be mingled with the recollections of father, mother, brother, and all the privations through which he had made his way into life. Every one saw that it was wholly unpremeditated,—a pressure on his heart which sought relief in words and tears.

“The court-room during these two or three minutes presented an extraordinary spectacle. Chief Justice Marshall, with his tall, gaunt figure bent over as if to catch the slightest whisper, the deep furrows of his cheek expanded with emotion, and eyes suffused with tears; Mr. Justice Washington at his side, with his small and emaciated frame, and countenance more like marble than I ever saw on any other human being, leaning forward with an eager, troubled look; and the remainder of the court at the two extremities, pressing as it were, toward a single point, while the audience below were, wrapping themselves round in closer folds beneath the bench to catch each look, and every movement of the speaker's face. . . . There was not one among the strong-minded men of that assembly who could think it unmanly to weep, when he saw standing before him the man who had made such an argument melted into the tenderness of a child.

"Mr. Webster, having recovered his composure and fixed his keen eye upon the Chief Justice, said, in that deep tone with which he sometimes thrilled the heart of an audience,—

"‘Sir, I know not how others may feel’ (glancing at the opponents of the College before him, some of whom were its graduates), ‘but, for myself, when I see my alma mater surrounded, like Cæsar in the senate house, by those who are reiterating stab upon stab, I would not, for this right hand, have her turn to me and say, Et tu quoque, mi fili!—And thou too, my son!’

"He sat down; there was a deathlike stillness throughout the room for some moments; every one seemed to be slowly recovering himself and coming gradually back to his ordinary range of thought and feeling."¹

At first the court was unable to come to any agreement, and the case was continued for another year. Probably a majority of the judges were unconvinced at the first, but further consideration of the argument, aided perhaps by the influence of the Chief Justice and of Chancellor Kent, who had become converted, led to an agreement. It is of course absurd to suggest that judges like Johnson, Livingston, and Story could have been carried over by appeals to their political sympathies, though there was an extensive campaign carried on for influencing opinion, in which President Brown showed a strong hand. Mr. Charles Pinkney, of Baltimore, Webster's only real rival in forensic power at the bar of the Supreme Court, was added to the counsel for the State, and all parties anxiously awaited the next term, when a motion for reargument was to be made. As soon as the court opened, February 2, 1819, however, Chief Justice Marshall announced the decision of the court sustaining the College.

This decision practically ended the controversy. The Circuit Court cases were disposed of with an elaborated decision by Judge Story, adverse to the State.

Throughout the period of the great controversy the College maintained a precarious existence. The University had possession of the buildings, while the College had to take refuge in a hall over a store, known as Brown Hall, standing southeast of the present Rollins Chapel. A tragic tinge was given to the situation by the death of President Wheelock, April 4, 1817, soon after his removal. In President Brown the College had a leader at home fully equal to the great advocates in charge of the case. While making the utmost of the situation as an administrator, he kept himself abreast of the lawyers in his complete and exact understanding of legal details, and by his suggestion contributed not a little to the success of their efforts. President Allen of the University was a courteous gentleman, and the two faculties maintained harmonious relations. The students, while keenly alive to the issue, were forbearing and good-natured. Says one of them: "We all followed one bell, and for two years a hundred or more students were crossing the plain, at every ringing of the bell, to their chapel and various recitation rooms, while a dozen university students were crossing our paths in other directions, giving ample opportunity to crack a joke and chaff each other."¹ Says another: "There was, by a sort of tacit consent, a general harmony between the several students. The same tintinnabulum summoned both parties to prayers, recitations and meals, and they crossed the same campus; yet not without a muchness of good-natured chaff and banter, we the 'οι πολλοι,' and they the 'few yet brave.'"²

Occasionally the harmony was interrupted, as in the attempt of the officers of the University to seize the libraries of the literary societies, when the students seized the Professors and escorted them to their homes; and in mutual strife for the possession of the church at Commencement.

When the news reached Hanover of the decision of the court in favor of the College, it was received with rejoicing which was said to have somewhat strained the bounds of decorum. The College party, by virtue of the law of the strongest, took possession of buildings and property. So great was the victory that no one counted the expense. It never should be forgotten, however, that in these costs must be reckoned the lives of two presidents, for President Brown soon followed President Wheelock to a premature grave.

² Henry K. Oliver.

Mr. Hopkinson wrote to President Brown: "The court goes all lengths with us, and whatever trouble the gentlemen may give us in future, they cannot shake those principles which must and will restore Dartmouth College to its true and original owners. I would have an inscription over the door of your building,—'Founded by Eleazar Wheelock, Refounded by Daniel Webster.'"

The wish of Mr. Hopkinson has been appropriately realized by a bronze tablet at the entrance to Webster Hall, a large auditorium facing the northeast corner of the college campus, erected by the Alumni as a memorial to the great orator; the cornerstone of Webster Hall was laid in 1901 with appropriate ceremonies at the centennial celebration of Webster's graduation.

CHAPTER III

GROWTH AND EXPANSION

DARTMOUTH had been recovered, but at the cost of such impoverishment that nothing but the foundations were left. These consisted of little more than a body of traditions, but they were priceless. For the third time the work had to be commenced practically from the beginning.

Rev. Daniel Dana, D.D., of the class of 1788, was called to the presidency in 1820; a choice spirit, an attractive preacher, but with impaired health, he entered upon the work with great reluctance. Before the end of a year, the cares and burdens of the new position, and the unwelcome change from congenial professional duties to administrative details for which he had less taste, reacted unfavorably upon his health, produced great depression of spirits, and led to his resignation. His winsome personality had been effective in removing the gloom and soreness left by the controversy and creating a hopeful outlook, but the time was too short for the formation or development of a policy of administration.

In 1822 Rev. Bennet Tyler, D.D., was chosen as the fifth President; a graduate of Yale College in 1804, an earnest and successful minister, the call came to him as a surprise. With a commanding presence and genial manner, he brought to the position a strong combination of qualities. While the religious aspects of the work appealed to him keenly, and results were most fruitful in that direction, he was also an able instructor and administrator. During his term of six years in office, the institution renewed its original strength and moved forward on wider lines. The religious character of the early days, which had declined and almost disappeared at times, was now restored by profound spiritual awakenings. Able men, like Professors Oliver, Chamberlain, and Haddock, were added to the Faculty, the latter being the first professor of Rhetoric in any New England college, and few have been abler. Thornton and Wentworth Halls were projected, the first addition to the buildings in thirty years; the courses of study enlarged, especially in natural science and literature, and the requirements for admission raised. Notwithstanding this reasonable degree of success, his preference continued to be for the ministry, to which he returned after six years of service.

Rev. Nathan Lord, D.D., the sixth President, was a graduate of Bowdoin College, in 1809, where he had enjoyed the training of two strong Dartmouth men, Presidents McKeen and Appleton. He was not only the youngest college president in the country, when he entered the office in 1828, but one of the youngest men who had ever been called to the presidency of a college in the United States. Leaving college at the early age of sixteen, with experience in teaching at Exeter Academy, a theological course at Andover, and twelve years in the ministry at a time of theological controversy, all combined with superior physical and intellectual qualities, he came to his work superbly equipped. There was need of all his resources; for while the situation was less desperate, the demand for strong leadership had greatly increased. Since the founding of Dartmouth, the number of colleges based on the same faith had increased from three to eight, and the struggle for existence became one for position. Keen and sagacious in discipline, dignified and affable in manner, President Lord had withal a force of personality that left its mark upon every student of the twenty-six hundred and seventy-five who graduated under him and had sufficient breadth of character to receive the impression. Strong, brilliant men were added to the Faculty, the curriculum was enlarged and strengthened, and funds increased. Reed Hall and Shattuck Observatory were erected, the Chandler School of Science and the Arts was instituted in 1851, collections in natural history were increased and arranged, and the standing of the College raised at home and abroad. Unlike his two predecessors, he left the pulpit decisively, to become a whole-hearted educator; but the spirit and the motive were the same. He went into the ministry to save his own soul and the souls of others; the aim of his college work was identical, to develop self-centred Christian character. Probably the distinguishing marks of the Dartmouth type of man were received from him more than from any other source. His influence was the result, not so much of a policy or of a method, though he had both, as of a dominant personality. Keenly awake to the educational activity of the time, also to the fact that many wild projects were being suggested, he formed his policy with a wise mingling of intensity of purpose and conservatism of method. He held strongly to the disciplinary, as against the professional idea of a college, and grounded his system of training upon moral instead of æsthetic, utilitarian, or ambitious considerations. The force was personality; the method was direct appeal to the elements which are fundamental and regnant in man; the result was character of the free, symmetrical, resourceful type which the College has ever since shown the ability to produce. A memorable incident of this administration illustrative of his method was the abolition of all distinctions based on scholarship, and the assignment of Commencement parts by lot. Experience, however, led to a resumption of the former method. Personally, President Lord always commanded respect and admiration, but after a time he adopted views upon the subjects of religion and of slavery that friends of the College felt to be prejudicial to its interests. In early life he had been in sympathy with the spirit, though not with the methods, of the opponents of slavery, but later he was understood to have adopted views in defence of that institution. These sentiments were given a prominence by the Civil War to which otherwise they might not have attained, and in 1863 the Merrimack County Conference of Congregational Churches addressed a remonstrance to the Trustees, in which the question was raised, whether the interests of the College did not require a change of administration. The Trustees replied with resolutions expressing vigorous condemnation of slavery, warm support of the Government in the prosecution of the war, and a disavowal of the sentiments of the President on these subjects, but declaring that in their opinion further action would be inexpedient. No further action was needed; for the President, while protesting against the imposition of "any religious, ethical, or political test beyond what is recognized by the charter of the institution," and against implied censure "as having become injurious to the College, not on account of any official malfeasance or delinquency," and declining to "surrender his moral and constitutional right and Christian liberty," gracefully withdrew from the office. The College had prospered greatly under his hand, and notwithstanding the friction in purely official relations, he retained the respect and affectionate admiration of all classes.

Rev. Asa Dodge Smith, D.D., who became President in 1863, was an alumnus of the College, class of 1830, who had risen to distinction in the ministry in which he had had an experience of twenty years. Dignified and affable in presence, with quick and tender sympathies and an earnest Christian spirit, he gave himself to the work with unselfish devotion. He had a rare gift of enlisting interest in the institution, especially in religious circles, and also of attracting patrons and students by his winsome personality. Success attended his efforts in raising funds, particularly scholarships, and in opening sources out of which others came later. During his term the aggregate number of students reached a higher point than ever before. Bissell Hall was erected in 1866-67, at that time one of the best gymnasiums in the country. In 1868 the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts, based on the Congressional Land Grant, was instituted in Hanover and associated with Dartmouth College, by act of the State Legislature passed in June, 1866, and Culver and Conant Halls, intended primarily for the use of the State College, were completed within a few years. An interesting incident in this administration was the celebration, in 1869, of the centennial of the founding of the College, when the sons of Dartmouth and their friends gathered in unprecedented numbers and sang her praises right royally. The Thayer School of Civil Engineering was founded in 1871. After fourteen years of indefatigable and self-denying service, President Smith sank beneath his cares, worn out prematurely, as in the case of more than one of his predecessors.

Rev. Samuel Colcord Bartlett, D.D., who came to the office of President in 1877, belonged to one of the older and well-known families of the state. An alumnus of the College, class of 1836, of robust physical strength, alert and incisive in mind, an accomplished scholar in many fields, an effective orator, with large experience as a teacher and preacher, his administration was a vigorous one. Though a strong advocate of the Classical studies and especially of Greek, Dr. Bartlett gracefully yielded to the demand of the public for the Bachelor's degree without Greek, and the Latin-Scientific Course, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Letters, B.L., was established in 1880, together with a considerable extension of electives, optionals and honors. Not only was the number of instructors in the College proper and in the associated schools greatly increased, but the efficiency of the teaching was largely enhanced by the careful supervision of an energetic and scholarly administrator, and several buildings, Wilson Hall (library), Rollins Chapel, The Wheelock (hotel), and Bartlett Hall (Y. M. C. A headquarters), were erected. Near the close of this administration, at the session of the State Legislature in 1891-92, acts were passed by the Legislature dissolving the connection of the State College with Dartmouth and removing it to Durham, in order to accept the gift of the Benjamin Thompson estate, then valued at more than four hundred thousand dollars. Another important change was instituted at this time; at the renewed solicitation of the Alumni and by the consent of the Trustees in June, 1891, provision was made for alumni representation (a matter which had been pending several years), in the selection of the Board of Trustees, according to the following agreement:—

“1. Resolved: That the graduates of the College, the Thayer School, and the Chandler School, of at least five years’ standing, may nominate a suitable person for election to each of the five trusteeships next becoming vacant on the board of trustees of the College (excepting those held by the Governor and President), and may so nominate for the election of his successors in such trusteeship.

“2. Resolved: That whenever any such vacancy shall occur in such trusteeship, or the succession thereto, the trustees will take no action to fill the same until the expiration of three months after notice to the Secretary of the Alumni of the occurrence of such vacancy, unless a nomination therefor shall be sooner presented by the Alumni to said Trustees.”

The above plan of Alumni representation was barely instituted, when in 1892, after fifteen years of service, President Bartlett felt constrained, in view of advancing years, to resign the Presidency and devote his time and strength to less exacting duties.

Upon his resignation, the Trustees of the College passed the following resolution. “The Board recognizes the eminent ability, intellectual and executive, which Dr. Bartlett has given to the Presidency of the College; his great acquirements in so many departments of learning; his unsurpassed energy in administration; his untiring and incessant labors; his undoubted love for the College. During his Presidency the tone and standard of scholarship has been raised; the range and choice of studies has been broadened and extended; the library has been enlarged from 54,000 to 72,000 volumes; and the friends of the College have contributed to its funds, including that given for land and buildings, over $700,000, and during this period all the funds of the College have been scrupulously kept to the purposes for which they were given."

Dr. Bartlett was immediately appointed by the Trustees "Lecturer on the Relation of the Bible to Science and History" which position he held till his death in 1898.

In 1892, William Jewett Tucker, D.D., a graduate of the College, class of 1861, and a member of the Board of Trustees was elected President, but his duties in the Andover Theological Seminary which was then in a legal crisis, compelled him to decline the office; persistent solicitation by the Trustees, Faculty and Alumni during the following year prevailed, however, upon him to accept the Presidency, the legal question at Andover having been settled, and he entered upon its active duties in September, 1893. Professor John King Lord, class of 1868, was appointed acting President during the interim of 1892. Dr. Tucker at the outset rightly interpreted the signs of the times in the educational world; the vast extension of the subject-matter of the higher education, involving corresponding advances in the methods of instruction, the rapid growth of high schools as fitting schools for colleges, and the sudden increase of endowments and appropriations for colleges and universities, imposed new obligations upon an historic college like Dartmouth and led to the plan of reconstruction with constructive expansion as the guiding principle. The withdrawal of the College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts and the incorporation into the College of the Chandler Scientific School in 1893 rendered possible a plan of unification and the better correlation of the graduate schools. The Tappan Wentworth fund of $500,000, given by will in 1875, became available at this time which greatly increased the productive funds of the College; this enabled the Trustees to establish the departments of Biology, Sociology, History, and Economics. The Butterfield bequest in 1894 of $145,000 was devoted to the erection and maintenance of Butterfield Museum, containing the Mineralogical and Geological collections and the Biological laboratories. The Wilder fund of $175,000 in 1896 was devoted to the departments of Physics and Astronomy, and the Wilder Laboratory for Physics was erected. In 1898, Mr. Edward Tuck, of the class of 1862, gave $300,000 which, with additional gifts and appreciation of funds soon reached the value of $500,000; the gift was a memorial of his father, the Honorable Amos Tuck of the class of 1835 and a Trustee of the College from 1857 to 1866. This fund was given entirely for the purpose of instruction, in accordance with which purpose the departments of Modern History, Economics, and Political Science were greatly enlarged; and later, under the approval of Mr. Tuck, the Amos Tuck School of Administration and Finance was established, which action was followed in 1901 by the further gift by Mr. Tuck of $150,000 for the lecture and recitation building known as Tuck Hall.

In entering upon the principle of constructive expansion in 1893, several problems came up for settlement such as water supply, heat, light and the general question of sanitation, which naturally fall to a College located in the country. President Tucker, availing himself of the interest already shown by the citizens of the precinct in an adequate water supply, was able to perfect a plan in conjunction with the precinct by which this want was met through the expenditure of about $100,000 as a total investment by College and precinct. In 1898 a central heating plant was established at a cost of $77,000 and all the College buildings, forty in number, are now supplied with ample heat from this source. In 1904 an electric lighting plant was added at a cost of $34,000, with dynamos equipped for power service, whenever needed in the College, as well as for lighting. The creation of a modern college plant in a small village like Hanover involved the problem of housing and otherwise caring for the students, as well as of providing adequate lecture rooms and laboratories. By the increase in the number of students, the College was compelled to provide fourteen dormitories in as many years at an expense of several hundred thousand dollars, which proved to be a fair investment of money, as well as a necessity. The preservation of the democratic spirit of the College with so large an increase of students, presented a difficult problem which was met by the arrangement and management of the dormitories; in every building high, low, and medium priced rooms were provided on every floor so that no single class or clique of men could control a house, or floor of a dormitory, and thus the men of different classes and of varying financial circumstances could be kept closely associated to the advantage of all. As fraternity houses increased in number, restrictions were put upon the number allowed to reside in them and no house was allowed to furnish board to the members of the fraternity.

As a supplement to the dormitory and fraternity system, the College erected College Hall in 1900 with club rooms for social purposes and established the College Club of which all students on entering College became members; in connection with this Hall is a large dining hall, or College commons, where 800 or more students can be accommodated with board. College Hall is intended also for the Alumni when they return, rooms and small dining halls for class suppers being provided for that purpose.

In September, 1901, the College honored the memory of its most noted graduate, Daniel Webster, by the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of his graduation; the exercises occupied two days and were attended by many noted men in public life; with the possible exception of the centennial celebration of the College in 1869, there was gathered the most distinguished assembly ever in Hanover. On the second day of the celebration the cornerstone of Webster Hall was laid with impressive ceremonies; this Hall, as a fitting memorial of Webster, serves as an auditorium for general lecture purposes and dramatics and for Commencement exercises; it was erected with funds contributed by the Alumni at a cost of $150,000.

So many changes had taken place in the educational world that the Trustees, on recommendation of the Faculty, voted in 1902 that the degree of Bachelor of Letters (B.L.) should not be conferred after 1905; meanwhile the requirement for the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science had been steadily advanced.

February 18, 1904, was a sad day for Dartmouth men, as old Dartmouth Hall, built 1784 to 1791, was entirely destroyed by fire. Up to this time it had stood as the most interesting and characteristic College building in America, for it was more intimately connected with all the history and life of an institution of learning than any other structure. Before the burning was complete, one of the Trustees in Boston, Melvin O. Adams, Esq., class of 1871, had issued "not an invitation, but a summons" to the Alumni to assemble in Tremont Temple to provide for its rebuilding. The response was so hearty and general that the Committee then appointed reported to the Trustees within three months that the funds promised would warrant immediate reconstruction, and the cornerstone of the new Dartmouth Hall was laid in October of the same year. The sixth Earl of Dartmouth, the great-great-grandson of the nobleman whose name the College perpetuates, was present at the ceremony and laid in an impressive manner the cornerstone, and thus added another link to the chain binding the Dartmouth of England to the Dartmouth of America. The new Dartmouth Hall is devoted entirely to lecture and recitation rooms, and was assigned to the departments of the Ancient and Modern Languages, Art, Archæology and Philosophy. With the rebuilding of Dartmouth Hall for these uses, the various departments or groups of related departments were provided with separate, and for the most part, adequate buildings.

A comparison of the number of students and instructors, the number of College buildings, and the annual expenses at the beginning and close of this administration will best exhibit the growth and expansion of the College during that time. In 1893, in the College proper, there were 314 students, 26 instructors and 11 College buildings; the net expenses were $88,747 and the receipts from students $18,611. In 1909 the number of students was 1107, instructors 81, and buildings 35; the net expenses were $278,554 and the receipts from students $131,363. The increase in number of administrative officers during this period illustrates also the growth of the College. The office of Dean of the Faculty, whose duty should be to assist the President in the detailed work of internal administration, was created in 1893. In 1898 the office of Superintendent of Buildings was established, in 1905 the office of Secretary of the College, and in 1908 the office of Registrar; each of these officers has several assistants, so that the number now employed in administrative work is fifteen, as compared with three in 1893.

A marked characteristic of the administration of President Tucker was the use by the President, of the Vesper Service on Sundays for the discussion of religious, ethical, and social subjects, the effect of which was seen in the moral stimulus given to the whole College, and in the spirit of unity which was developed.

In June, 1907, Dr. Tucker tendered his resignation to the Trustees on account of impaired health, but he was prevailed upon to continue in office with duties somewhat lightened, until July, 1909, when he insisted upon being relieved of the responsibility of the office. Dr. Tucker has been made President Emeritus by the Trustees, dating from his resignation.

In 1909, Ernest Fox Nichols, B.S., Sc.D., a graduate of Kansas Agricultural College in 1888, later a student for seven years in Cornell, Berlin and Cambridge Universities, was elected the tenth

President of the College. President Nichols had been Professor of Physics in Colgate University and in Dartmouth from 1898 to 1903 and from that time to his election as President, Professor of Experimental Physics in Columbia University. Before his election as President, Dr. Nichols had through his scientific discoveries in foreign laboratories, at Dartmouth, and at Columbia won a world-wide reputation as an investigator; his reputation as a teacher and administrator was already firmly established. President Nichols began at once to strengthen the College internally, looking towards greater efficiency along scientific methods of administration; his purpose to make the instruction more effective by increasing the number of teachers and by raising the salaries of the more experienced professors and instructors was greatly aided by the additional gift in November, 1910, of about half a million dollars by Mr. Edward Tuck, class of 1862, which, by expressed article of gift is to be entirely devoted to this object; the Trustees have devoted the John S. Kennedy gift of $100,000 to the same purpose, thus emphasizing the President's policy; gifts also from the Alumni have been added to this fund. Fearing that the rapid growth of the College may produce a decline in the intimate relations between students and members of the Faculty, the President has established a system of advisers whereby each man entering College is assigned to an Instructor who is to act as friendly counsellor to the student in his work or in other matters where he may wish to consult with one of more experience and maturity than may be found among his contemporaries in College. Without announcing any fixed policy, President Nichols is still studying the needs of the College and is administering it along the same general lines as his predecessor.

GENERAL STATEMENT CONCERNING THE ILLUSTRATIONS

IN the illustrations which accompany this historical sketch there has been no attempt to follow the chronological order in the erection of the College buildings which was closely adhered to in the last edition of the General Catalogue (1900); but rather, starting at a given point, the northeast corner of the Campus, to follow the streets about the Campus and exhibit what the College possesses to the Alumni and friends of the College. All the property about the Campus, of about four acres, is in the possession of the College, except about 60 feet frontage on the west side where the Bank building stands, and the Church and Vestry at the northwest corner; the possession of the Church, however, is in the hands of the pew owners and the College owns more pews than any other party, and together with the Church, composed chiefly of College people, possesses about nine tenths of all the pews.

The College Church is the only building in which the College has a pecuniary interest, since the burning of Dartmouth Hall in February, 1904, which dates back in its erection to the eighteenth century.

With few exceptions these views have to do with buildings which are now in existence and in constant use; they exhibit the practical working plant of a modern College; the earlier structures were temporary, affording little more than mere shelter while the work of permanent construction was going on.

COLLEGE BUILDINGS IN 1790

The first plate represents the group of College buildings as it appeared in 1790, although the picture bears the date of 1803. This is taken from the well known Ticknor drawing, the original of which is in the President and Trustees' room in Parkhurst Hall. Below the picture are the lines which follow:

“Where late the Savage roam'd in search of prey,
Fair science spreads her all enlivening ray.
The ancient forest fall'n; its inmates fled;
See Seats and Sons of learning in their stead!
'Tis scenes like these, that freedom's pow'r disclose,
She makes the desert blossom like the rose.”

“This view of the principal Buildings of Dartmouth University is humbly inscribed to the Honorable John Wheelock, Esquire, LL.D. President, by George Ticknor, Delin-eator, and Member of the Sophomore Class, aged eleven years. July, 1803.”

Dartmouth Hall, begun in 1784, was fully completed in 1791: it was built from moneys secured by grants from the Provincial Assembly, private subscriptions, and public lotteries; a debt, however, remained upon the building which was an embarrassment for many years. The building on the right of Dartmouth Hall was a chapel built in 1790, removed in 1828 to the west side of the Campus, where it was used until 1840 for general religious purposes. Still further to the right is the house erected in 1773 for President Eleazar Wheelock, and occupied also by his son, President John Wheelock, by President Allen (of the University), by President Tyler, and for a short time by President Lord; the house was removed to West Wheelock Street in 1838; it has recently been remodelled and devoted to the use of a free public library, through the generosity of Mrs. Emily Howe Hitchcock. The large building on the left of the picture, originally the residence of Colonel Aaron Kinsman, was used until 1815 as College Commons.

BIRDSEYE VIEW OF HANOVER

This is intended to represent a "birdseye" view of the Campus and surrounding buildings, together with the College Park and the country to the north and east. In this picture Dr. Leeds' house and President Lord's house (old administration building) at the north end of the Campus, are imagined as removed to complete the original plan of another quadrangle there, as on the other sides of the Campus; with this exception the view represents things as they exist today; the new administration building (Parkhurst Hall) up North Main Street, nearly opposite the church, and the new gymnasium, on East Wheelock Street at the right of the picture, show the latest additions to the College group of new buildings. A comparison of these two views will give one an adequate conception of what has taken place about the Campus in the past century.

DARTMOUTH HALL (OLD AND NEW)

The original Dartmouth Hall (1784-91) was built of wood and lasted through all the primitive methods of heating and lighting; open fires, wood stoves, wood furnaces, coal stoves, coal furnaces, and into the days of steam heat; for lighting, pine knots, tallow candles, whale oil, kerosene oil, gas, and into the age of electric lighting, to be entirely destroyed by fire in February, 1904, when the town and College were well equipped with apparatus for fire protection; a notable example of the irony of fate. Old Dartmouth had served every purpose of the College, furnishing recitation and lecture rooms, chapel, library, book-stores, store house, dormitory, etc.

The new Dartmouth, built of brick, is entirely devoted to lecture and recitation rooms, and is most conveniently arranged and suitably equipped for the purpose. It has been assigned to the departments of language, philosophy and art. A comparison of the lower view with the upper will show how faithfully the lines of the new follow the old as to the exterior.

DARTMOUTH HALL (OLD)

DARTMOUTH HALL (NEW)

THE COLLEGE YARD

The upper view, taken with the leaves off the trees, gives a better conception of the yard and its relation to the Campus, as the camera was placed about the middle of the latter, facing east; it gives the yard as it has been since the erection of Reed Hall in 1838-40, at the right of the picture or south end of the yard. Thornton and Wentworth Halls to the south and north of Dartmouth respectively, were erected in 1828 and like Dartmouth Hall have been used for lecture and recitation rooms in part, but chiefly as dormitories. As these halls have been in service for a long time and need renovation, it is the plan of the Trustees to make over the interior and convert them, one at a time, as occasion demands, into recitation halls; in this way the yard will remain intact and none of the buildings surrounding it will be changed in outward appearance.

The lower view is looking south from Rollins Chapel and shows Reed Hall in the distance; it gives one an idea of the slope of the yard and the beauty of its trees.

THE COLLEGE YARD

BARTLETT HALL

The upper picture shows the south end of Reed Hall in the front and left of the view; after the removal of the College library, together with the books of the "Social Friends" and "United Fraternity" to Wilson Hall in 1885, the second floor of Reed Hall has been used for student rooms; since the erection of Wilder Hall in 1898-99, which is devoted entirely to Physics and Astronomy, the lower floor of Reed has also been used for dormitory purposes the same as the other two floors, and the south door opened for entrance.

The building near the centre of the picture is Bartlett Hall (Y. M. C. A. Building) built in 1890-91 partly through an appropriation by the Trustees, and partly from funds raised by President Bartlett, in honor of whom the building was later named by the Trustees. This building is the students' headquarters for religious work, Bible Study classes, and the centre for Christian activities. The buildings partly in sight beyond are the Fayerweather group, directly back of Dartmouth Hall.

WILSON HALL (LIBRARY)

Wilson Hall at the corner of College and East Wheelock Streets (south side), opened in 1885, was the gift of Mr. George F. Wilson, of Providence, R. I., under the suggestion of his legal adviser, the late Hon. Halsey J. Boardman, of the class of 1858. The building is divided into two parts,—the reading and reference rooms with the offices, and the other, the stack room four floors in height, connected by iron staircases. The upper floor is still used in part as a portrait gallery. This building, which twenty-five years ago was considered quite ample for library purposes, is now much too small to meet the demands of the enlarged College and the Trustees are considering the securing of half a million dollars to supply the need.

BARTLETT HALL

WILSON HALL (LIBRARY)

BISSELL HALL

This hall, erected in 1866-67, was built with funds given by George H. Bissell, Esq., of New York, of the class of 1845, and was used as a Gymnasium from that time to 1910; though built when the number of students was about 300, it served the College until the number became nearly 1200. Since the erection of the New Gymnasium, the building has been turned over to the Thayer School of Civil Engineering and is now completely renovated inside and minor changes made on the exterior; a second floor with steel beams has been added, giving ample space for all the purposes of the department. The basement has been fitted for cement testing, hydraulic laboratory, etc. The first floor is devoted to offices for the Director and Professors, class rooms, instrument room, etc., the second floor to class rooms, Library and reading room, and a room for models, etc., while the third floor furnishes two large drawing rooms with over-head lighting, and a blue print room.

THE HANOVER INN

The old hotel, called "The Dartmouth," which stood on the present site of the Inn was destroyed by fire in 1887; soon after the fire the Trustees purchased the land and the lot east of it and erected a new hotel building and named it "The Wheelock"; this building was thoroughly renovated and newly furnished by the Trustees in 1903 and has since been known as "The Hanover Inn"; it is under the control of the Trustees and managed by a graduate of the College and for the interests of the Alumni and friends of the College.

Bissell Hall and the Hanover Inn are the only buildings facing the south end of the Campus, and the space between forms an open square.

BISSELL HALL

HANOVER INN

COLLEGE HALL

This building, erected in 1901, is situated at the corner of Main and Wheelock Streets, diagonally across from the Hanover Inn and faces the south west corner of the Campus; it occupies the site of the house once occupied by Professor Charles B. Haddock, and later by Professor Samuel G. Brown; the old house was moved to East Wheelock Street in 1871, and the building which replaced it, after being used as a residence for several years by Mr. Adna P. Balch, was given over to business purposes until destroyed by fire in 1900.

College Hall has a frontage of 80 feet on the Campus and extends 120 feet on West Wheelock Street; in addition it carries an extension in the rear toward the north for a dining hall, 50 feet by 85 feet, which is finished in quartered oak and open into the roof; beside this hall there are two smaller dining rooms to the south, so that between 400 and 500 students can be accommodated at once; these with the grill room in the basement can furnish board for 800 men daily.

The lower floor and a part of the second floor of the main building are conveniently divided into club rooms accommodating the various College organizations; the remainder of the second floor and the third floor are arranged in suites of rooms for the ordinary use of students for term time and for the use of the Alumni at Commencement.

College Hall, by its location and by its use, has become the social headquarters of the student body.

SANBORN HOUSE

Passing north from College Hall is the small brick bank building which unfortunately the College does not own; very close to it is located Sanborn House, the front portion of which was the home for many years of Professor Edwin D. Sanborn; this was purchased by the College soon after his death in 1885, and in 1894 it was greatly enlarged by an extension in the rear and made over into a dormitory accommodating fifty students.

The south front room, Professor Sanborn's study, carries today the wall paper, representing the bay of Naples and surrounding country, which was hung nearly 100 years ago.

COLLEGE HALL

SANBORN HOUSE

COLLEGE DINING HALL

College Hall is not only the social headquarters of the College, but the opening of the Dining Hall and the grill room, managed by the College, regulated the price of board and secured wholesome food at a reasonable cost. In this room the Commencement dinners are given, and in the winter months, smoke talks or concerts are held nearly every Saturday evening.

The beauty of the Hall is recognized by all visitors.

COLLEGE DINING HALL

ADMINISTRATION GROUP

Just north of Sanborn House and across Sanborn Lane is the administration group, consisting of Tuck Hall and Parkhurst Hall, with Massachusetts Hall in the rear, forming an open quadrangle facing the campus.

Tuck Hall stands where Professor Ira Young's house stood which was moved back to the rear of the lot and used for students' rooms, and called Proctor House.

Parkhurst Hall occupies the place where Professor Shurtleff's house stood, known in later years as Mrs. Susan Brown's, and a part of the place known as the Hubbard House. Massachusetts Hall in the back of the group is one of the largest and best dormitories owned by the College and accommodates nearly 100 students.

ADMINISTRATION GROUP

MASSACHUSETTS HALL

TUCK HALL

This building, erected in 1902, is the home of the Amos Tuck School of Administration and Finance established in 1900 by Mr. Edward Tuck, class of 1862, in memory of his father, Amos Tuck, class of 1835; it has a frontage of 100 feet and a depth of 50 feet, beside an extension in the rear of 60 by 40 feet, and the entire building is three stories in height; the first floor contains the administrative offices, instructor's offices, recitation rooms, a seminar room and a lecture room equipped with projecting and reflecting apparatus for illustration, with accommodations for nearly 300 students; the second floor offers additional recitation rooms and offices, an accounting room, and a large practical working library with periodical literature, trade papers and other material pertinent to the work of the school; the third floor is devoted chiefly to the uses of a commercial museum.

PARKHURST ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

This building and its equipment was a gift to the College in 1910 by Mr. Lewis Parkhurst of the class of 1878, a Trustee since 1908, and Mrs. Parkhurst. For the first time in the history of this College, or any other, has the entire administrative work been so adequately provided for and gathered together in one building devoted solely to its uses; the building is fire proof throughout and furnishes offices, public and private, for the President and Trustees, the Treasurer, the Dean, the Registrar, the Superintendent of Buildings, the Medical Director, and the Auditor. In addition to the above public and private offices there are rooms for committee work, storage rooms, and six large safety vaults; the second and third floor space in the rear extension is devoted entirely to a commodious Faculty room, after the pattern of the English House of Commons, in the arrangement of seats.

FACULTY ROOM

MOOR HALL

(Now known as Chandler Building.)

Moor Hall was the second building for Moor's Charity School, erected on the site of the first which was built in 1791. Moor's Indian Charity School, Lebanon, Conn., 1754, became Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H., in 1769, but the income of certain funds held under the title of the President of Moor's Charity School was applied to the support of an Academy in charge of preceptors, usually recent graduates of the College, until 1849 when the Academy was discontinued. Since that time the funds have sufficiently increased to allow the appointment of a preceptor who carries on his work in connection with the public high school; it may be interesting to note that an Indian youth is now in the high school receiving aid from this fund.

The Chandler School of Science and Arts, founded by Abiel Chandler of Boston, Mass., occupied this building during the entire time of its separate existence from 1852 to 1893, when it was incorporated into the College under the title of the Chandler scientific course.

The Chandler building furnishes accommodations for all the mathematical work of the College and also for the Graphics and Surveying.

CROSBY HOUSE

The lower view is of the Crosby House which stands next to Chandler Hall; the front part was the home of Dr. Dixie Crosby for many years; after his death it was purchased by the College and used as a residence for the Faculty till 1896 when the extension in the rear was added and the whole building made into a dormitory and since occupied by students.

MOOR HALL.

CROSBY HOUSE

COLLEGE CHURCH

This church, facing the north-west corner of the campus, was built in 1796 by private subscriptions and is still possessed by the pew-owners; fortunately the College and the Church of Christ at Dartmouth College own nine-tenths of all the pews. The church was enlarged and renovated in 1877 and again in 1889; at the latter date the interior was restored under the direction of McKim, Mead & White to its original Colonial design through means furnished chiefly by the late Mr. Hiram Hitchcock; the seating capacity of the church is about 1,200.

The Commencement exercises of the College were held in this building from its erection to the completion of Webster Hall in 1907, where they have since been held on account of its greater seating capacity. On the right of the church is the house for a long time the residence of Mills Olcott, class of 1790, in which Daniel Webster was examined for admission to College and in which Rufus Choate was married; this house was owned and occupied for many years by Dr. S. P. Leeds who was pastor of this church continuously for forty years, till 1900, when he became pastor emeritus, preaching occasionally until his death in 1910.

The lower picture gives a view of the interior as it is at this time, with the exception of the coloring which is most pleasing to the eye.

WEBSTER HALL

Opposite the north-east corner of the Campus stands Webster Hall, the foundations of which were laid on the occasion of the centennial celebration of the graduation of Daniel Webster in 1801. It is an auditorium with a seating capacity of about 1,600, and is used for the graduating exercises at Commencement, for lectures, concerts, dramatics, and for the general assembly of the students; on its walls are hung portraits of past Presidents, Professors, scholars, friends and benefactors of the College. It was erected by the Alumni as a memorial to Dartmouth's most gifted son and the purposes to which it is devoted are best expressed in the words of President Tucker at its formal opening: "To preserve the honorable and inspiring traditions of the College, to bring our illustrious dead into daily fellowship with the living, to quicken within us the sense of a common inheritance and of a common duty, to enlarge our knowledge of men and of the world through the spoken word of scholars, discoverers, patriots, and benefactors of their kind, to refine our manners and to stimulate our taste through access to art, to give to us the full advantage of quick and ready contact of one with another, of each with all, and of all with those who represent the interests, the intellectual wealth, and the moral necessities of the world."

ROLLINS CHAPEL

Across College Street from Webster Hall is Rollins Chapel, a gift by the Hon. Edward Ashton Rollins, of Philadelphia, class of 1851, and erected in 1885; it has been twice enlarged and now has a seating capacity of about 1,200; it contains memorial windows of the deceased Presidents of the College, in the chancel and in the transepts. The building is used exclusively for religious services, and prayers are held each week day morning, and a vesper service on Sunday evenings between five and six o'clock.

This completes the circuit of the Campus, as we have returned to our starting point in the College yard.

BUTTERFIELD MUSEUM

Having completed the circuit of the Campus, we will first look at Butterfield Museum which was intended to complete the open quadrangle on the north side of the Campus, as shown in the view given on page 61; it was built with funds given by Dr. Ralph Butterfield of Kansas City, Mo., class of 1839, and is devoted to "the purpose of keeping, preserving, and exhibiting specimens illustrating the branches of paleontology, archæology, ethnology, and other kindred subjects." The departments of Geology and Mineralogy, Botany and Zoölogy have their recitation and lecture rooms as well as their offices and laboratories in this building.

The lower view is taken in front of Butterfield Museum looking east to Richardson Hall, with Wheeler Hall on the left and Rollins Chapel on the right.

RICHARDSON HALL—WHEELER HALL

The upper view is of Richardson Hall, a dormitory with the highest priced rooms offered by the College, and named for the late Judge James B. Richardson, class of 1857.

The lower view is of Wheeler Hall which stands just north of Rollins Chapel and is also a dormitory, accommodating about 100 students. This view is taken from a point just south of Richardson Hall looking down from the terrace past the corner of Richardson.

WILDER HALL

Wilder Hall (Physical Laboratory), erected in 1899 from funds given by Mr. Charles T. Wilder, of Olcott (now Wilder), Vt., for the department of Physics. The building is 107 feet long by 52 in depth, with a lecture-room projection in the rear. The laboratories and recitation-rooms occupy three floors and a basement. The basement is devoted to workshop, dynamo-room, magnetic and electrical laboratories, storage-battery room, and a room for constant-temperature experiments. The first floor contains two large recitation-rooms, the private offices of the instructors, a lecture-room in the extension having a seating capacity for two hundred and forty persons, with a room for apparatus adjoining. The main laboratory occupies a section of the second and third floors, and the remainder of these floors is divided into laboratories for advanced work in acoustics, optics, and electricity; photographic and photometric laboratories and a concave-grating room are included. The entire building is heated by steam (direct and indirect radiation), provided with electric lights, wired on the conduit system for power circuits, supplied with gas, and piped for air blasts and water supply. The building is located near the Observatory, allowing the departments of Physics and Astronomy to work in conjunction.

THE TERRACE

The Terrace, showing the front of Wilder, a corner of Richardson, the north side of Wentworth, Rollins Chapel, and Wheeler Hall. The view is taken from a point near the Medical School Building, and illustrates one of the plans carried out in the more recent grouping of buildings. It is in general the design of the Trustees to leave the old College buildings undisturbed, to make Wentworth Street, at the north end of the Campus, the base of the future extension of the College, filling in the quadrangle to which reference has been made with buildings of more general use, like the Butterfield Museum and Webster Memorial Hall, and to build to the north on Main or College Streets as the needs of the College may demand and as property may be acquired.

The College Park, consisting of about thirty acres, and now thickly shaded by the trees sent from Northern Europe by Chief Justice Joel Parker, will be held so far as possible as a reservation.

OBSERVATORY SLOPE AND TOWER

The Tower stands near the site of the old pine, destroyed by lightning, and its stump is visible in the upper picture which gives a near view of the Tower, which bears the following inscription: "This tower suggested by President Bartlett was erected by subscriptions from the classes of 1885 to 1895 inclusive." The total height is 71 feet, and the summit is reached by a spiral stairway; the material of which the Tower is built is hornblende schist, a rock found in abundance in the Park. The stump which appears near the base of the Tower is all that is left of the famous old pine about which the classes have gathered for many years on class day, and smoked the "pipe of peace."

MEDICAL SCHOOL BUILDINGS

The upper picture was taken from a point on Observatory hill just a little to the north and west of the Observatory looking down the western slope. The building on the left is the old Medical School Building as it appeared after remodeling in 1872; the original building was erected in 1811 with funds furnished by the State and by private subscriptions. The Stoughton Museum was placed in this building when enlarged in 1872. The building on the right was put up in 1909-10 and is devoted to the state bacteriological laboratory, recitation rooms, library and offices.

THE MARY HITCHCOCK MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

The Mary Hitchcock Memorial Hospital is not a College building, but is so intimately related both to the Medical School and the College that it is given a place among the College buildings. The building was begun in 1890 and completed in 1893, a memorial from Mr. Hiram Hitchcock to his wife, who died in 1887. The Hospital consists of a central pavilion with private rooms attached, two wings, the east containing the ward for men, the west, the ward for women, and a large operating amphitheatre in the rear.

The Hospital is very complete in its appointments and has accommodations for about forty patients.

THE FAYERWEATHER ROW

The central building, erected in 1900, stands directly back of Dartmouth Hall and about one hundred and forty feet from it, and with the north and south Fayerweathers built in 1907 (the South rebuilt in 1910 on account of fire), accommodate nearly 200 students; these three buildings form the east side of a large quadrangle with Dartmouth, Thornton, and Wentworth forming the west line, and Bartlett Hall for the south, and Richardson Hall for the north end.

CULVER HALL

Culver Hall was built in 1871 with funds furnished by the Hon. David Culver and wife of Lyme ($25,000) and by the State of New Hampshire ($15,000).

The building belonged jointly to Dartmouth College and the Agricultural College; when the latter removed to Durham, in 1892, the Legislature of the State remitted the amount it had contributed as the portion of the Agricultural College. From the first it has been used in part as a Chemical Laboratory, but during the recent period of reconstruction different departments of the College have found temporary quarters on its upper floors; the mineralogical cabinets were removed from the second and third floors to the Butterfield Museum in 1895. In 1904-05 the two lower floors were completely renovated and fitted up to meet the modern requirements of a chemical laboratory and lecture hall.

HALLGARTEN HALL

Across East Wheelock Street from Culver stands Hallgarten Hall, formerly known as Conant Hall, when the State College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts was located in Hanover; it was built in 1874 as a dormitory for the students of the State College, from money furnished by the Hon. John Conant of Jaffrey, N. H. On the removal of the State College to Durham in 1892-93, the Hall was purchased by the College and renamed in honor of Mr. Julius Hallgarten of New York, a benefactor of the College.

NEW HAMPSHIRE HALL

To the west of Hallgarten stands New Hampshire Hall, the latest of the dormitories and one of the best, with fire-proof construction and all modern conveniences, accommodating more than one hundred students. It is located just east of Wilson Hall, the library, and in front of the Central Heating Station.

HALLGARTEN HALL

NEW HAMPSHIRE HALL

CENTRAL HEATING PLANT—POWER HOUSE

Just back of New Hampshire Hall, as seen on the previous page, is the Heating and Lighting Station.

The assured growth of the College led Doctor Tucker at the beginning of his administration to consider the development of a business plant; the first essential for the expansion of the College on the material side was an abundant supply of water for dormitory and laboratory uses, for fire protection, and a sufficient and steady source of heat for all the College buildings. This system of improvements, begun in 1893 with a full supply of water, was not completed until the Central Heating Plant went into operation in the fall of 1898.

The two pictures illustrating these improvements are brought together because they are parts of a common plan, though separated in construction by a period of five years. For over seventy years the village of Hanover had been supplied with water of remarkable purity drawn from springs through what was known as an aqueduct system; this system is still in use for domestic purposes. With a view to securing an adequate supply of water for all purposes, the College and the Precinct united in forming the Hanover Water Works Company, the College furnishing $25,000, the Precinct $20,000, and $20,000 more was bonded. A reservoir covering thirty-three acres was constructed in a basin among the hills nearly three miles to the northeast of the College; the reservoir is one hundred and fifty-five feet above the village, and affords a pressure of sixty-five pounds, sufficient for all hydrant purposes.

Within the past few years the water company has purchased the twelve farms forming the watershed of almost a square mile supplying the reservoir, for about $40,000; the buildings have been removed or left unoccupied, so as to remove all possibility of contagious disease and to ensure purity of water supply.

The Central Heating Plant consists of a boiler-house of brick, 110 feet long, 50 feet deep, and 19 feet high, with a chimney 125 feet high; 32 feet of the east end is used for a dynamo-room; west of the boiler-room are the coal pockets, 45 by 50 feet, and 16 feet deep, with a capacity for eight hundred tons, and so constructed that coal-wagons can be emptied directly from above. At present there are installed eight horizontal tubular boilers of one hundred and twenty-five horse-power each; from the boiler-house run three lines of underground main pipe having a total length of nine thousand feet, and with each is connected a return pipe for the condensed steam. The amount of radiating surface in the thirty-four buildings connected with the plant is one hundred and fifteen thousand square feet. The main pipes are of such capacity and so well protected from loss of heat by radiation that the steam pressure is inappreciably reduced at the farthest point, more than two thousand feet from the boiler-house. The efficiency and economy of the system have been satisfactorily demonstrated for the past twelve seasons.

In 1905 the dynamo-room was equipped with necessary apparatus for lighting and power purposes; the lighting plant consists of three 75 K. W. dynamos, directly connected to single cylinder reciprocating engines. Two machines are sufficient to care for the entire load at the present time, leaving one machine in reserve for emergencies.

THE ALUMNI GYMNASIUM

The new Gymnasium is to the east of New Hampshire and Hallgarten Halls on East Wheelock Street and on the same lot with the Athletic field and to the north of it. The upper view is the front facing north toward the street, and the second gives the south side facing the athletic field, and shows its convenient location.

This Gymnasium is absolutely unique, in that it contains, under one structure, complete facilities both for regular gymnastic and physical exercise and for preliminary training and development in all branches of college athletics. The building consists of a ground floor, first floor, and a second story. The main building is eighty by two hundred and twenty feet, running north and south, and on either side is a wing one hundred and forty by one hundred and twelve feet; the west wing provides a complete baseball diamond, while the east wing is devoted to track athletics and field events; in the basement of the main building are three hand-ball courts.

The front of the building, including the wings, extends three hundred and sixty feet; the ground floor provides a cinder track of about six laps to the mile, a hundred-yard straight-away running track, area for shot-putting, pole-vaulting, etc. The first floor contains a large trophy room, with offices for the Athletic Council, and rooms for visiting teams; also a room for boxing, an equipment room, and a Faculty locker room with baths. The second floor, approached by double staircases at the north end, furnishes the gymnasium floor proper, consisting of a room eighty by over two hundred feet, giving ample space for several hundred men to exercise at the same time. The building is generously supplied with lockers, shower baths, and all necessary conveniences and facilities for exercise and sport. The cost of the building, with furnishings, was about $150,000, and the money was raised in great part among the alumni.

The Gymnasium is open daily for the use of the students, and during the winter season a regular exercise is required of all members of the Freshman class, and voluntary divisions are formed among members of the other classes. The aim is to reach the large body of students who do not enter into athletic contests, as well as to train athletes.

A swimming tank is contemplated as soon as the necessary funds are supplied; the dressing and locker rooms will readily fit in with such a plan.

P. Balch; hence the modern name.

CHANDLER SCHOOL OF SCIENCE AND THE ARTS

ESTABLISHED IN 1851

The Chandler School existed as a separate department of the College from its establishment in 1851 until 1893 when it was incorporated into the College by the joint action of the Trustees of the College and the Visitors of the Chandler School, as the "Chandler Scientific Course" in the College. The first class of the Chandler School was graduated in 1854 receiving the degree of B. S., and in the interval from 1854 to 1893, 433 men have received the same degree; in previous general catalogues their names have been put in a list by themselves at the end of their respective classes and marked C. S. D. but in this edition they are put in alphabetical order in the classes and marked s. In the classes since 1893 the letters B. S. indicate the graduates of the Chandler scientific course of the College.

The Trustees of Dartmouth College have also been the Trustees of the Chandler School, and there has been from the first a Board of Visitors, consisting of two members, which still exists.

For a list of the Trustees, see pages 177 and 178.
